

by means of contracts from the coffers of the State to Jewish speculators' pockets. The statements were made by Herr Ahlwardt amid growing confusion. He was interrupted by a call for names, but did not give them. After the President had quieted the house, Herr Ahlwardt said the deputies were not obliged to depend upon his word, for proof of these frauds existed, as documentary evidence above impeached, as he had the losses of the State through the contracts been trivial, the matter might better have been allowed to pass unnoticed, but the truth was that through its relations with Jews the government lost hundreds of millions. There are documents proving this, signed by men of national reputation, several of whom are now ministers, and one of them is Miquel, Prussian Minister of Finance. A prolonged uproar followed the statement. Deputies shouted that Ahlwardt should produce the documents, as he would have been proved worthless, and the debate closed with his being directed to submit the documents to the Reichstag tomorrow.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

The Mayor of Moscow Shot by a Supposed Nihilist.

Moscow, March 21.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Mayor of Moscow was shot in the abdomen with a revolver today by a man named Adrianoff. The City Council met in the City Hall to elect a new Mayor, when Adrianoff pushed his way in and demanded loudly to see the mayor, and Mayor Alexeieff left his chair to ascertain his business. As Adrianoff began to reproach him with dishonesty and oppression of the people, Alexeieff ordered him to leave the building. Adrianoff then drew a revolver and shot the Mayor in the stomach. Adrianoff was delivered to the police. A physician dressed Alexeieff's wound and restored him to consciousness, although he can hardly survive the night. Adrianoff is of a respectable middle-class family. Whether he is a Nihilist or shot the Mayor merely to avenge a private grievance is not known. The police believe he is insane. There is reason for believing Adrianoff may have had a political motive, as the police in searching him found in his shoe a slip of paper on which was written "Lot fallen upon you."

Convicted of Unnatural Crimes. Brazil, March 21.—The trial of Samuel Wesley de Cobian, formerly a member of Parliament, was concluded today. De Cobian was charged with unnatural crimes, and convicted and sentenced to one year at hard labor. The sentence was received with general approval.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Five Dead Bodies Found in a Floating Drygoods Box.

Impossible to Recognize the Features of the Dead People—It is Supposed to Be a Case of Murder.

By Telegraph to the Times. St. Joseph (Mo.), March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] This afternoon Compton McCoy, a hunter, was out on a sandbar a few miles below this city, duck shooting, when he noticed a large dry goods box floating down the stream. He towed the box to the shore, and finding it tightly nailed, broke it open, when, to his surprise, a dead body rolled out. He summoned help, and investigation disclosed a horrible state of affairs. In the box were five bodies, all in a terribly decomposed condition. The bodies had been piled in the box, one on top of the other, as if done hurriedly. Four of the bodies were those of men, the other that of a woman. The bodies were so badly decomposed that it was impossible to recognize the features. From marks, it is supposed the people were murdered, and then set adrift on the river. Coroner Reynolds held an investigation, and the utmost excitement prevails in the neighborhood. A couple of months ago a family disappeared near Rulo, a town about forty miles up the river, and it is supposed the bodies found are those of the missing people.

RHODE ISLAND POLITICS.

State Tickets Nominated by Republicans and Democrats.

PROVIDENCE, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The Republican State Convention has unanimously renominated D. R. Brown for Governor, E. R. Allen for Lieutenant-Governor, C. H. Bennett for Secretary of State, E. C. Dubois for Attorney-General, and Samuel Clark for Treasurer. The Committee on Resolutions reported, and the report was unanimously adopted. The platform, among other things, favors the maintenance of the absolute equity of the value and purchasing power between all forms of money, and declares in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act, and declares against State bank notes, and praises in high terms the last administration. The Democratic State Convention has made the following nominations unanimously: Governor, David S. Baker, Jr.; Lieutenant-Governor, Dalton E. Young; Secretary of State, John J. Heffernan; Attorney-General, Clarence A. Aldrich. The platform adopted finds a source of congratulation in the auspicious opening of the national Democratic administration, and pledges Rhode Island Democrats to the early repeal of the so-called Sherman "Coinage Act" and to a reduction of the tariff, in accordance with the principles proclaimed by the party at the last national convention.

The Reading's Finances.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Judge Dallas of the United States Circuit this afternoon, on petition of the receivers of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad for authority to issue receiver's certificates to the amount of $7,500,000, referred the matter to George L. Crawford, with instructions to report to the court as to the advisability of making the order.

Trial Trip of the New York.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—The armored cruiser New York sailed on her trial trip at noon. Tomorrow morning she will go outside to give the engines a thorough test. Though this trial is not official, it is by far the most important, for it will settle the vessel's future usefulness as a warship.

Wanted to Issue Receiver's Certificates.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Counsel for the receivers of the Reading road this afternoon applied to the United States Circuit Court for permission to issue receiver's certificates.

BLOWN UP.

Fatal Explosion in an Illinois Flouring Mill.

The Accident Resulted from a Fire Caused by a Spark.

Litchfield Wrecked and Surrounding Property Damaged.

A Victim Slowly Burned to Death—Several Injured More or Less Seriously—Partial List of Losses.

By Telegraph to the Times.

LITCHFIELD (Ill.), March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The most frightful calamity in the history of this city occurred at an early hour this morning. It resulted in a loss of over half a million dollars' worth of property and a number of lives, practically wrecking half of the town and damaging property for miles around. Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in Kohler's Planet Steam Flouring Mills, the largest of the kind in the world, located in the southwestern part of the city. The fire department had scarcely arrived on the scene when an explosion of terrific violence

SHOOK THE EARTH FOR MILES AROUND, the shock being felt even as far as Decatur, fifty miles distant. It broke the plate glass windows in a majority of the stores in the city, prostrated almost every one on the street at the time, shook houses loose from their foundations, and jarred the machinery in the adjacent houses, and in many cases to such an extent that work will have to be suspended until the necessary repairs can be made. It is supposed the fire ORIGINATED FROM A SPARK from a passing locomotive, and the subsequent explosion was caused by the flames coming in contact with accumulations of mill dust. It looked at one time as if the entire south end of the town would be consumed, but the fire department, after a hard fight of three hours, managed to prevent the flames from spreading.

Head Millwright John Garve of Waterloo attempted to save his tools from the burning building, and was assisted by the explosion and thrown against the smokestack and pinned there while he his limbs being burned off. Mrs. V. Hoffman had a leg broken, and Mrs. E. Richeloth, Sr., had her head cut. The grain elevator of an adjoining mill, containing a quarter of a million bushels of wheat, was burned to the ground, with contents, together with a dozen Washburn freight cars standing alongside.

The mill was owned by Kohler Bros. of St. Louis, and had a capacity of 2000 barrels of flour daily, and employed 150 hands. THE LOSSES. L. A. Smith, general manager of the mills, placed the loss at $500,000, while the insurance is about $280,000. The other losses are: Adolph Newber, store, residence and barn, partially demolished, $30,000, insured in part; Mrs. V. Hoffman lost three hundred dollars' worth of tools; Peter Oter and Mrs. O'Neill are left practically homeless. John Grass's store, immediately east of the mills, was almost entirely demolished. Upon State, Riders and Kissam streets, principal business thoroughfares, nearly every plate-glass window was destroyed by the concussion. The loss to the Litchfield new hotel is not far from $10,000, while the New York Store sustained a heavy loss. More than one hundred residences were damaged to a greater or less extent, and it is impossible to arrive at anything like an accurate estimate of the total damages. Residences several miles in the country also suffered to a slight extent.

FOREIGN SAINTS AND HEROES.

A Few of the Holidays Chicago May Be Called Upon to Celebrate.

CHICAGO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] In carrying out the order passed by the City Council last night, directing the closing of the City Hall tomorrow in honor of the birthday of Emperor William of Germany, Mayor Washburn, in a sarcastic note to the heads of departments, limiting the effect of the order as much as possible, refers to the closing of the City Hall, by order of the Council, on St. Patrick's birthday, and suggests that, in order to give due recognition to the heterogeneous population of which the city is made up, the Council should take like action on the closing of the City Hall to all foreign saints and heroes, and then, if all the secular days of the year have not been already used up, that what is left be devoted to honoring the birthdays of some of the American heroes.

KAILANI'S FAREWELL.

The Princess Issues an Address to the People of America.

NEW YORK, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Princess Victoria Kaiulani has promulgated her farewell address to the American people as follows: "To the American people: Before leaving this land I want to thank all those whose kindness has made my visit such a happy one. Not the hundreds of hands I have grasped nor the kind smiles I have seen, but the written words of sympathy that have been sent me from so many homes have made me feel that whatever happens to me, I am not a stranger to you, and that it was to the American people I spoke, and they have heard me, as I knew they would, and I now say to all, God bless you for it, from the beautiful home where your fair first lady reigns to the dear crippled boy who sent me his loving letter and prayer. (Signed.) KAILANI. The Princess will sail for England tomorrow."

NORTHERN PACIFIC AFFAIRS.

Business Transacted at a Special Meeting of Directors.

NEW YORK, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] A special meeting of the directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad was held today. President Oakes presided. The meeting was called to discuss the question of the proposed sale of stock of the St. Paul and Northern Pacific Railroad. It was also expected that the Willard policy for the future management of the company's interests would be considered, and either accepted or rejected, particularly in reference to the settlement of the floating debt. Both matters were held over for final disposition at the next meeting, after a brief review.

Wants to Issue Receiver's Certificates.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Counsel for the receivers of the Reading road this afternoon applied to the United States Circuit Court for permission to issue receiver's certificates.

AFTER HIS BROTHER.

An Old Man Under the Control of a Lawyer.

CHICAGO, March 23.—[By the Associated Press.] James W. Dixon of New York is seeking in the Circuit Court, to wrest the person and property of his brother, Henry W. Dixon, from the alleged fraudulent possession and control of Henry W. Dixon, a New York lawyer. He claims his brother, who at one time was a wealthy man, is now the object of hypnotism practiced by Lawyer Root. He says Root has controlled the old man for several years, and is alleged to have secured possession of the greater part of his property. The bill further implicates Mrs. R. D. Hayward with Root in the plot. Root was an attorney in New York city until three years ago, when he went to Montana. Out there he has been one of the counsel in the Davis will case. A dispatch from New York says he was a lawyer of excellent reputation when in that city.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

The Second Annual Meeting in Southern California.

A Success, Notwithstanding the Weather. Committees Appointed and Business Transacted—Several Addresses Delivered.

By Telegraph to the Times.

SANTA ANA, March 21.—[Special.] The second annual meeting of the Southern California State Sunday-school Association is proving a success despite the efforts of the weather clerk to the contrary. The attendance today was much larger than at the opening session last night, and interest is correspondingly increasing.

Capt. Cressey, president of the association, commanded the forces, and under his superior generalship soon had the various delegations laboring with heart and hand in the Christian work before them.

After half an hour or more of music, during which time the choir and audience seemed to sing themselves into the spirit of Christian endeavor, Capt. Cressey appealed to the earnestness of the members of the association, and said that if there was anything the meeting needed it was earnest prayer and supplication. He therefore called upon Moore Hesketh of Riverside to lead the members in several short but earnest prayers, the result of which was an out-pouring of supplication and devout prayer from many Christians whose desire was to teach the people the path of duty and the way to Christian life, and to make them faithful to men and to their God.

The business portion of the programme was then taken up, and the following committees appointed. On Nominations—L. A. Peters of Ventura county, Miss Ida Livermore of Santa Barbara, George M. Smith of Los Angeles city, J. P. Early of Los Angeles county, Rev. J. D. Rumsby of San Bernardino county, J. D. Burch of San Diego county and J. A. Hankey of Orange county.

On Resolutions—Mrs. E. F. Pardee of Ventura county, P. L. Stanton of Santa Barbara county, Mrs. F. J. Cressey of Los Angeles city, H. R. Lee of Los Angeles county, Rev. J. H. Stewart of San Bernardino county, C. H. Barber of San Diego county, and A. L. Thomas of Orange county.

Rev. J. D. Moody of Los Angeles was introduced and gave a very practical and helpful address on the subject of "Normal Work," illustrating his remarks by the free use of the blackboard and crayon.

Then followed "the question box," conducted by C. I. Barber of San Diego. The weather in the afternoon brought out a large attendance. All seemed happy, as the sunshine was bright without.

After an inspiring song service the convention listened to a talk on "Primary Work," by Mrs. R. G. Smith of Minneapolis. Mrs. Smith is a kindergarten worker, and showed her manner of teaching little ones Bible truths according to kindergarten methods. She illustrated plainly how the attention of the little ones could be secured and how spiritual reasons could be permanently impressed upon their minds.

Rev. Richard Garton, D.D., of Los Angeles, delivered an address upon "Rescuing the Children," which was full of the most kindly advice to thoughtful or careless parents, and containing valuable suggestions to earnest Christian workers.

The subject of "Primary Work" was taken up, and two most valuable papers read upon the subject, the first by Mrs. G. W. Tyler of the First Presbyterian Church of San Diego and the other by Mrs. David C. Cook of Los Angeles.

The most impressive portion of the convention session was the prayer by Rev. Dr. Dean, a venerable man of God from National City, who has been preaching the gospel of Christ for over sixty years, and for over fifty years to heathen in foreign lands. Rev. Mr. Dean was assisted upon the stage, and, addressing himself to primary teachers in Sunday schools, made a most eloquent and touching prayer, during which time the breathing of the congregation could almost be heard, so still was the hall.

The evening meeting was more largely attended than any of the previous sessions. The principal address, "How Shall We Reach That Boy?" by Rev. H. D. Connell of Santa Ana, was a masterful effort, and well worth the consideration of parents and Christian people.

Although the weather has been uninviting, and the attendance not as large as expected, the second annual Convention of the Southern California State Sunday-school Association is proving a rare spiritual feast, and is destined to greatly benefit the Sunday schools throughout the counties of Southern California.

Importation of Breeding Animals. WASHINGTON, March 21.—Secretary Carlisle has issued a circular making the regulations governing the importation of animals for breeding purposes less stringent. The former requirement of four top crosses has been reduced to three, and the collectors of customs are given some discretion about the admission of animals which they have reason to believe are entitled to free entry.

Death of a Santa Barbara Editor.

SANTA BARBARA, March 21.—Walter H. Nixon, for many years editor of the Morning Press, died this morning of consumption, brought on by an attack of grippe over a year ago. He has been confined to his house several months.

50-CENT TAX LIMIT.

Many Appropriation Bills Likely to Be Vetted.

Gov. Markham Will Use the Pruning-Knife Very Freely.

Mackay's Physicists—Pronounce Him Out of Immediate Danger.

Trouble Feared from Union Sailors at San Pedro—Riverside County Organization—Tacoma Divorce Suit—Notes.

By Telegraph to the Times.

SACRAMENTO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Between 150 and 160 bills, passed by the late Legislature, are awaiting the signature of the Governor before they can become laws. Next Saturday will be the last day allowed by law which the Governor has to approve or disapprove the bills. A large number of the measures provide for appropriations. Many of these will surely be vetoed in order that the 50-cent tax limit shall be complied with. In order to do this the Governor will have to leave unsigned bills amounting to nearly $2,000,000. Private Secretary Higgins is engaged in preparing a tabulated statement of all the appropriations made by the Legislature. This, when completed, will be used as a ready reference for the Governor to properly use the pruning knife.

Gov. Markham appeared at his office early this morning in the best of health and spirits, ready to handle the great amount of work ahead of him. Today he heard arguments in favor of signing Assembly Bill 666, allowing irrigation districts to disorganize by a three-fifths vote of the taxpayers in the district. Private Secretary Higgins says that in all probability it is the Governor's intention to sign all of the 150 or 160 bills at one time, on the last day he has to do so.

According to custom, both houses, before adjourning sine die, allowed officers and members of the Legislature to add bills to the list of bills to be performed by them after adjournment. The Assembly had a bill passed, providing for the payment of extra compensation, but the Senate did not. As a consequence, with the exception of a few of the first who died their vouch, the officers and members of the Senate will not receive extra pay. There appears to be nothing for them to do but to wait until the next Legislature meets.

SAILORS' TROUBLES.

San Pedro Union Men Threaten to Kidnap a Ship.

SAN PEDRO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Corona, which arrived here yesterday, brought down two non-union sailors from the barkentine Eureka. They were immediately captured by some union men who were on the lookout for them. Serious trouble is anticipated in the near future, as the union men are preparing to go on board the Eureka to-night and gag the watchmen and kidnap the non-union crew. Capt. Brenner of the Eureka went to Los Angeles yesterday to secure the services of the Sheriff. He claims the police here give him little or no protection.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

The New Commissioners Sworn In and Ready for Business.

RIVERSIDE, March 21.—[Special.] The commissioners appointed by Gov. Markham received their commissions on Saturday and held their first official meeting today. They were sworn in by Judge Foster of Riverside, who was chairman and D. G. Mitchell of Perris secretary. The day was spent in outlining political precincts and districts. The opening session of the annual convention of the Epworth League of the San Diego district was held today. Preliminary resolutions have been passed by the City Trustees preparatory to paying the principal streets of the city.

A DIVORCE SCANDAL.

The "Duke of Tacoma" and Wife Again in Court.

TACOMA, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Evelyn P. Ferry, the former wife of Clinton P. Ferry, "Duke of Tacoma," commenced a suit today to have a decree of divorce and division of property set aside. They are the couple who caused a scandal in Paris, France, three years ago by the arrest of the wife and her alleged adultery by her in order to secure possession of her child. She now denies all the charges and claims the property is worth $50,000 instead of $100,000, as claimed by her husband at the time of the divorce. Ferry is now in Sweden, and Mrs. Ferry is in San Francisco. Both are well known in Stockton and San Francisco.

MACKAY'S CONDITION.

Doing as Well as Possible and in No Immediate Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Drs. Morse and Keeney, who are attending John W. Mackay, had a consultation this evening, and at 8:30 made the announcement that Mr. Mackay had passed a very good afternoon, slept well and was comfortable. Both physicians are very much pleased with his condition, and say he is doing as well as possible, and that the crisis has passed, and that quiet and rest are all that are necessary to restore him to good health.

Steamship Lines to New York.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—The North American Steamship Company has announced a passenger rate of $100 from here to New York. The company is not especially desirous of obtaining passenger business, but will carry travelers if they wish to go at that figure.

Railroads and Taxation.

PHOENIX, March 21.—The Council today passed the Railroad Exemption Bill by a vote of 7 to 5, granting exemption from taxation for twenty years to all roads beginning work within one year. The bill is expected to meet with strong opposition in the Assembly.

Telephone Connection.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Manager John I. Sabin, of the Pacific Bell Telephone Company, announces that within a week direct telephonic connection will be established between San Francisco and Fresno.

Shot Himself.

TUCSON (Ariz.), March 21.—H. S. Stevens, a prominent cattleman and delegate to Congress from Arizona from #### 1872 to 1876, shot himself this afternoon, dying in two hours. He had been dependent for some time owing to cattle losses and ill health. The deceased was a highly-respected citizen.

Accused of Murder.

PHOENIX (Ariz.), March 21.—Benito Grilhalva was arrested yesterday and sentenced to six months in the County Jail for wife beating, and was accused today of the murder of an old man who lived in the same family. Justice Kincaid and a coroner's jury are now at the scene of action, four miles northwest of this city. The report is that the old man was beaten to death with a club.

THE TELAUTOGRAPH.

A Long Distance Writing Machine Successful.

CHICAGO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Prof. Elisha Gray's telerigraph, or long distance writing machine, was tested here and in New York simultaneously over short circuits before a number of representatives of the press. It is claimed by its inventor that the telerigraph will reproduce writing of any description at any distance. The performance of the machine was all that could be expected, and pronounced successful.

KANSAS BOODLE.

High State Officials Accused of Taking Bribes.

The Story of the Organization of the Legislature—Members Counted in According to a Talkative Witness.

By Telegraph to the Times.

TOPEKA (Kan.), March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The Senate committee investigating the charges of bribery by the Capital against high State officials to defeat certain anti-gambling bills in the recent Legislature were continued today. After a number of witnesses had given unimportant testimony James F. Legate was sworn. He said: "There was considerable conference with reference to the organization of the Legislature. I looked over the list of members, and from my knowledge of the men and the canvass there are at least six men who have been counted in. It was told that W. J. Buchanan received $15,000, or $20,000 from Kansas City whiskey men for a number of years. Peter Kline told me the gamblers had been compelled for the last two years to contribute $10,000 a year to the Republican party of Kansas. In the late campaign I told him if he would lend me $8000 I would buy a paper, and I would get him protection from these demands. Kline liked the idea, so did the whiskey men. Meanwhile the men whom I had canvassed the State came in and told me they would get eight or ten Republican members of the House to vote with the Populists for a majority. Kline wanted to pay the men, and told Peter Kline I wanted $3000. I said he would be reimbursed by the Populist party. He gave me a check for $3000, and I paid the men. My judgment is that it cost the railroad $40,000 to get those four men to sign for Douglas. Later on Judge Doster told me three Democrats would go into the Populist House as soon as a break. I sent word to Kline that I was going to get a bill through destroying the policy business, but one of the Democrats, however, would not join the movement. Failing to get Republicans to break, he sought to get Populists into the Republican House, but the railroad interfered. Peter Kline will testify before the commission tomorrow. He declares that the most sensational testimony is yet to come."

TOOLS OF TRADE.

A Lot of Theatrical Costumes Held by Customs Officers.

NEW YORK, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Customs officials at this port believe they have discovered an attempt to smuggle a lot of theatrical costumes into this country. It appears that a number of Italian opera singers are here on the steamship New York. Each one had from two to four trunks, and it is said they declared to the customs officers that they had nothing dutiable. An examination of the trunks showed they were filled with costumes enough for 200 people. Mr. Abbey said he held bills showing that each individual member of the company had purchased his or her costumes, and they were, therefore, entitled under the law to admission free of duty as "tools of trade." There were a few things, he said, belonging to the management, and on these he wanted to pay duty. He said he would submit satisfactory proof of all his statements to the Collector. Collector Hendricks says that if the facts are as Abbey states, the trunks will be released.

Discontented Subjects.

BERLIN, March 21.—The latest returns from second election district of Arnberg-Mechede-Olpe, where an election was held yesterday, show Johannes Fusaleng, the Independent Clerical candidate, has a majority over all other. Fusaleng is a rapid Prussian hater, and the election is regarded as significant, growing out of the discontent felt by the people toward the government since the introduction of the Army Bill.

Southern Pacific Assumes Control.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.), March 21.—While there has been no formal transfer of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass road it has virtually passed under the control of the Southern Pacific. The road is controlled by the Pacific Improvement Company, it is understood, are now being printed, and as soon as they are signed, Thomas Stillman will arrive from New York and assume the presidency.

South American Missions.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Bishop John T. Newman of Omaha, who has been delegated by the Methodist House of Bishops to visit South American missions of that denomination, has sailed from this port with his wife on the Pacific mail steamship Columbia.

America's Cup Race.

LONDON, March 21.—It is understood that Lord Dunsen will accept the conditions of the race for the America's Cup submitted by the Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club, but will suggest that an earlier date than October 5 be set for the first race.

Anti-Plunkett Bill Passed.

HARRISBURG (Pa.), March 21.—In the House today the Anti-Plunkett Bill finally passed.

JACK THE RIPPER.

A Long-sought Man Supposed to Have Been Captured.

Frank Castellano, an Italian Barber, Identified as the "Ripper."

Murder of a Woman in New York Leads to the Discovery.

The Accused Formerly a Fireman on Board a Transatlantic Steamer—Police Officials Elated Over the Capture.

By Telegraph to the Times.

NEW YORK, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] The police of this city are inclined to think that they have the elusive "Ripper" in their clutches. A woman was ripped up on Sunday night and a big knife left sticking in the wound. The knife was traced to one Frank Castellano, an Italian barber, whose record has been under the police search-light. They discovered that until quite recently he was fireman aboard one of the transatlantic steamers. There are circumstances connected with the case that incline the police to believe that Castellano is none other than the mysterious "Jack the Ripper," who kept London in terror for two years. Some go so far as to say that the prisoner will be found identical with the mysterious man who accompanied "Old Shakespeare" to the East River Hotel on the night of her murder, for whose death Frenchy, a Greek, is now serving a term in State prison. Capt. Doherty of the Fifth street squad is much elated over the capture, and says he will make every effort to secure a complete account of Castellano's travels and occupations during the past few years.

FALSE PRETENSES.

Chicago Parties Taken in by a Persian Jew.

CHICAGO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Phineas Hanauch, a Persian Jew, aged 35, who claims to be a son of a wealthy manufacturer of Persian carpets and rugs of Salina, Persia, and also of New York, was arrested today on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. He presented letters of recommendation from Dr. Wise of Cincinnati, which bore the endorsements of the Crown Prince of Persia, and many consular-general and others. He collected small amounts from several Hebrews here, but one of them, becoming suspicious, wired Dr. Wise, and received a reply that the man was a fraud, and he was at once arrested. By papers found in his room it was learned that Hanauch had operated extensively in Europe, and over a large portion of the United States. The prisoner admits he collected money, but says he is honest. He declares he is engaged to Miss Davis of Omaha.

ACCIDENT TO SCHAEFFER.

The Billiardist Has a Bad Fall and Fractured Arm.

CHICAGO, March 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Jake Schaeffer's match with George Slosson has probably fallen through by reason of a serious accident which befell Schaeffer this morning. He slipped on an icy pavement, and in falling the weight of his body rested on his right wrist. Two small bones were broken, and it will be fully six months before Schaeffer is able to handle a cue again. Whether the injury will be permanent cannot now be told. He has fractured his arm and has a badly sprained wrist.

Troublesome Chinaman.

MONTREAL, March 21.—Five hundred Chinamen, who were landed last week from the ship Tacoma at Victoria, B. C., are causing the health authorities of the Province of Quebec a great deal of anxiety. It is reported that smallpox has broken out among them.

LOS ANGELES THEATRE—Dr. Cupid.
GRAND OPERAHOUSE—Uncle Tom's Cabin.
PARK THEATRE—The French Spy.

Or the forty-four States in the Union, twenty-seven have Democratic Governors, fourteen Republican and three Populist.

According to a law passed by the late Legislature, it is now a misdemeanor for an attorney to advertise to secure divorces.

San Jose excuses herself for giving a grand banquet during Lent by calling it an act of charity to good men who had starved sixty days in the wilderness.

The Methodist Church at Laingsburg, Mich., has brass band music, with the preacher and his wife as members of the band. They make a joyful noise.

DAN LAMONT, an ex-newspaper man and present Secretary of War, will have a fine chance to show that the pen is mightier than the cheese-knife.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE-WILDE's suit for divorce is at a standstill in the New York courts. Mrs. Leslie made a mistake in not beginning the action in Dakota.

The Chicago Inter Ocean makes the graceful boast of the 6000 women office-holders under the National Government not one of them skipped out to Canada.

It is declared, on authority, that Mrs. Lease will keep the peace for a month and a day. She has got a new bonnet, and every newspaper in Kansas is prais-ing it.

TOMORROW the people of Riverside will celebrate their victory in securing a new county. It is not true that San Bernardino proposes to send down a delegation with a brass band.

The destruction of the big flouring mill at Litchfield, Ill., with the accompanying disaster, recalls the fact that flour dust permeating the air, as it is always to be found in such places, is about as explosive as nitro-glycerine.

It is stated that Theodore Thomas, while in Chicago, has successfully examined choral singers in New York by making use of the telephone. That is linked sweetness drawn out far beyond the poet's wildest dream.

The New Orleans Athletic Club is making an effort to raise $20,000 with which to pay the balance of $37,500 promised the winner in the last prize-fight. And that is one reason why New Orleans is beginning to sour on prize-fights.

NOW THAT the Populists have had their turn, the woman suffragists are going to make trouble in Kansas, for in the fall a vote will be taken on the proposition of full suffrage for women. The campaign will be one of the hottest in the career of bleeding Kansas.

A NEW YORK school teacher is quoted in the Philosophical Journal as saying: "We never punish a boy at our school; we teach him to sing. There is a volume of chastening influence in a tune, and better than the rod is a melody." It is probably this sort of a "chastening influence" that the "solid six" of the Board of Education are bringing to bear on the teachers. Please begin with the words, "We all like sheep."

It is reported that the Swiss telephone system, which is now under government control, is the best and cheapest in Europe. The government allows 800 calls a year to each subscriber, without extra charge, and all calls beyond that number are charged for at 1 cent each. The usual charge to subscribers is $24 for the first year, $10 for the second year, and less than $10 per year from then on. Telegrams are received at the telephone office and delivered at the telephone department at 2 cents each. It is time for the Bell monopoly to begin to come down. Its rates are too high and its restrictions are onerous.

We rather like the plucky way in which the Sacramento Bee comes back at its persecutors. It defiantly republishes this item, taken from its memorable issue of a week ago last Saturday: "There is no city in the State where so many diversified nocturnal attractions are permitted. Dog fights, cocking mains, rat killing, slogging matches, furo games and painted women form a galaxy of entertainments that the legislators have been unable to withstand. The numerous 'ladies' entrances' to the resorts have also been liberally patronized."

And then it has the nerve to say: "That portion of said article—together with the entire article—was true in each and every particular. The Bee has no apology whatever to make for it." And it furthermore gives warning that it proposes to sting right, and left.

STIFF LINES IN SKIRTS.

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Correspondent.)

The skirt of this costume indicates the tendency of the coming season, and while the flat, straight-away flare is more sensible than hoops last worn, it is not a graceful shape. Dark green cloth and yellow and green changeable velvet were the materials used, the latter forming the entire bodice and the garniture of the skirt. The fancy bodice is made of the green cloth embroidered with yellow, red and green silk.

different colored metal threads and imitation jewels. The fronts of the waist are loose but all the other parts are tight-fitting. The sleeves are of velvet and have large directorio puffs. The standing collar is covered with a fold of velvet and closes at the back. The fancy bodice is made separately and is lined with silk. It closes at the shoulder with two pairs of hooks and eyes and one pair fastens the front.

Special attention should be paid to the new bell skirt. It has but one seam down the center of the back, the new material that is made for this purpose being used. It is taken crosswise, but, in case one wishes to take the ordinary width, it could be pieced and the seam then covered with the trimming. The skirt is lined half way up with very thin crinoline, and then the whole is lined with silk. The trimming consists of velvet flounces and narrow velvet rolls. The flounces are not to be cut of bias velvet, as is usually the case, but cut very much curved from a straight piece, and then drawn out and sewed on straight. This makes the ruffle-like fullness. For the two ruffles around the bottom of the skirt nine and a half strips of velvet are required and the other two eighteen inches higher need seven and a half strips. All four ruffles must be lined with silk. Above these ruffles are sewed five rows of velvet one-half an inch wide with one-half an inch space between each one. They are made of velvet cut on the bias, are about an inch wide and all sewed together to form a roll. The skirt is only a trifle gathered in front and finished with a very narrow band.

SAY NOTHING, BUT SAW WOOD.

Of all the curious maxims
Handed down to modern time,
By those who are prosy
And well versed in ancient rhyme,
I am sure that the quaintest
And the one best understood
Is the quiet admonition
To—"Say nothing, but saw wood."

When you're strolling with a maiden
In quiet shade of a forest tree,
And you're dying just to kiss her
Or her lovely form embrace,
Don't ask her for permission,
To do what you would like to do,
Just place your arm around her
And—"Say nothing, but saw wood."

If you're ever caught while courting,
When I'm sure you never should,
Don't get yourself excited
And act like children would
Who are captured in their play,
Stealing jam or something good,
Just pardon the intrusion
And continue "sawing wood."

When your girl's athletic brother
Loads himself with "rock and rye,"
And is seeking your destruction
With red streaks in his eye,
Though the adjectives he calls you Cannot be compared with "good,"
My experience has taught me—
To "annihilate some wood."

When your angry spouse arises
And utters the cry of "blow,"
To add red streaks to his blouse
At the hour of half-past four,
Don't increase exasperation
By excuses—they're no good.
If you would rather pick a quarrel,
Just—"Say nothing, but saw wood."

WEATHER AND CROPS.

The Regular Weekly Bulletin for Southern California.

Following is the weather and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau for Southern California for the week ending March 20:

Los Angeles county.—The palms: The past week has had a moderate amount of sunshine. Rain began during the night of the 19th and continued; crops of all kinds need warm, dry weather. Vernal dews: Oranges are moving slowly, on account of the wet weather. Raisins: The rain interfered with orange-picking. Weeds, grass and grain are growing rankly everywhere. The usual acreage is being planted to orchard.

San Bernardino county.—Ontario: The rain of Monday was the heaviest of any one day for the season. The total for the season is now 18.75 inches. The rain interfered somewhat with orange-picking, though the ground is not muddy, as the soil drains quickly. Chino: Not much work on the ranches has been accomplished on account of the rains. The sugar beets are germinating and coming up better than was anticipated. The rainfall for the season to date is 10.85 inches. The planting has been interrupted by the rains. Barley is looking finely, and citrus trees are making a good growth.

Orange county.—Santa Ana: Sufficient rain has fallen on the present storm to give 1 inch up to date. Grain is growing, fruit rapidly advancing, and the vegetable crop is growing nicely. Dry weather would hasten the gathering of the orange crop.

THE GRAND ARMY.

The Second Day of the State Encampment.

Annual Report of Department Commander Fuller Presented.

Senator E. C. Seymour Elected Department Commander.

Election of Officers of the W.R.C. and the Ladies of the G.A.R.—The Columbian Carnival Last Evening—The Parade Today.

The second day of the G.A.R. Department Encampment opened auspiciously, and the genial sunshine was welcomed by the veterans in attendance. It also had the effect of increasing the later arrivals from points near by, and it is estimated that during the day there were 700 of the old soldiers from out of town who had come to the city.

The meeting at Turner Hall was opened at 11 o'clock yesterday morning with Department Commander J. B. Fuller presiding.

Chaplain A. B. Morrison of Santa Monica offered prayer, and then the report of the Committee on Credentials was received.

The committee stated that it was a violation of the rules and would, consequently, be impossible to receive credentials from proxies instead of regularly-elected delegates.

After the roll-call the Department Commander presented his annual report. It follows in full:

ADDRESS OF THE DEPARTMENT COMMANDER.

Comrades: One short year ago at Fresno, at the silver anniversary of this department, I had the honor of receiving the unanimous vote of the encampment assembled for the high and honorable position of Commander. I have endeavored to perform the duties of the office faithfully and for the best interests of our noble order. And to show to you my appreciation of your favor, Comrades, I greet you, and trust that we will lose no time in dispatching the matter of the new department of the Republic. I ask your assistance in conducting such business as may come before us in a truly fraternal spirit, that we may do what we lose to do with dispatch, and to that end that those who have sent us here to legislate for their good may be satisfied with our work.

Department Commander J. B. Seymour.

The Assistant Adjutant General's report gives the total membership on January 1, 1892, as also posts mustered, and also posts whose charters have been surrendered, and such other data necessary to show the standing of the department on March 10, 1893.

It will be seen that on January 1, 1892, there were 115 posts in good standing. During the year there were mustered with a total membership of forty-two. Five posts were lost by disbanding, and two are on the suspended list for failure to forward reports. The net loss in members has been 128, and there are now in good standing 628 comrades, as against 611 on December 31, 1891. The suspended list foots up 80.

In this connection, I desire to call your attention to the large number of suspensions, and ask every post to do everything possible to have the department of the Republic, or otherwise, to induce delinquents to return, and whenever a comrade takes a card, to find out where he is going, and notify the nearest post, that he may be waited on and asked to join said post.

VISITS.

On the 4th and 5th of July I attended a reunion of the posts of the State of Nevada. While there assisted in organizing a district association, composed of all the posts in that State, which was named "The Association of the Seventeenth Infantry District, G.A.R.," which started under such favorable auspices that I am sure it will be a source of great good to the order in that section. To Comrade Junior Vice Department Commander Bosworth, I have given the credit of the credit for the success of the reunion, and all who were present will ever remember the enjoyable occasion.

Through the kindness of Past Department Commander Goodman, a special train of sleepers was run from San Francisco for the accommodation of comrades, and the Veterans of the State of Nevada, with them the Presidio band, greatly added to the celebration which made the people of Carson so glad.

On July 22d and 23d of July I visited the reunion of the Southern District Association, and found the comrades with their wives and children, encamped on the plaza, where the good citizens of Ventura had invited them to pitch their tents. The time was passed very pleasantly here. I believe more interest and more enthusiasm is brought out in this manner of conducting the reunion than in any other. Memories of "tenting on the old camp ground," as in the days of '61 to '63, come fresh to the memory of each soldier, and stories of camp life and old over and over again. I believe these reunions do much to keep up interest and induce many to become members of our order. I very much regret that the avian association has been so flourishing, failed, through a complication of circumstances, to hold a meeting last year.

Post of Eureka, together with the Woman's Relief Corps, being the first visit of a Department Commander they had ever received, they vied with each other to make it a red letter day, and well they succeeded.

Memorial day was observed throughout the entire department with usual care and attention. It was with much gratification that I accepted an invitation to join the comrades of San Francisco on that day, as all points of that city united as one band of brothers in the march to and in the exercises at the cemetery, said exercises having been conducted in a very creditable and impressive manner. It is worthy of notice that the people through the land are coming to realize that this day is one of mourning, dedicated to the memory of those departed heroes who gave their all for this Nation might, live and be gloriously, it is today, the greatest Nation on the face of the globe.

NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT.

The twenty-sixth national encampment, held at Washington, was largely attended, and owing to the fact that a rate was not given us by the Transcontinental Association until a few days before it was necessary.

Comrades: To leave the State, a large number of comrades from this department were deterred from going, yet twenty-two comrades participated in that grand march on the 21st day of September, the like of which will never be seen again. Among the many who so proudly passed down that beautiful avenue were Comrades Hayes and Butler, who have since passed to the New Jerusalem, where they must receive the reward of good and faithful servants. The Department of California, though few in numbers, made a fine appearance, and received, as usual, a full share of attention as they passed through the 350,000 spectators that lined each side of Pennsylvania avenue.

Department headquarters were established at the Everett House, on A street (a beautiful part of the city), and were arranged, and though some distance from national headquarters, were very comfortable, and were visited by a large number of comrades and their families. I thought it best, under all circumstances, to have no liquid refreshments whatever; but having two parlors, which we prepared for the entire day, without any cost to this department, I invited the W.R.C. Department of California, to make their headquarters with us, which they did. This carried out the usual custom that some may think the extreme carried too far, but I cheerfully submit my action in the matter and abide my verdict, believing that we lost no prestige, especially among those whose opinions we value the most, and whom we would have stand by us at all times, one of the best evidences being the fact that one of our number was the unanimous choice of the encampment for the second place in its gift, and I believe at no distant day this department will be the first in the list of all.

The important legislation of the encampment is referred to in both national and department circulars for your information, and I have only to say that the twenty-sixth national encampment was a success.

At our twenty-first encampment held at Santa Rosa, I was on a committee, one of the duties being to confer with Gen. Negley, at that time one of the directors of national homes, who was urging upon us the idea of selling the Yosemite property and using the proceeds to establish a library building at Santa Monica in connection with the National Home at that place. It was the unanimous vote of our committee that the time had not yet come to dispose of that property. That we were right goes without saying. What a comfort to the 540 old veterans that are now today, conducted as it now is! What could be done without it! All praise to the Veterans' Home Association and their assistants. On my visit there, I was accompanied by Comrade Rowell, Secretary of the association, who, with the Commandant and Surgeon, Comrades Merriman and Aiken, gave me every opportunity for inspection. I found everything about the premises in as perfect condition as it could be under their present crowded condition and limited means at command at the association. The food was abundant and well cooked, and the quarters were warm, beds and bedding excellent. A new building has just been completed which is by far the best building on the grounds. The lower part will be used for well-equipped laundry; the second story has two large, finely-ventilated sleeping-rooms, which will relieve the other, now overcrowded, buildings.

I am pleased to say that the present treasurer, our esteemed Comrade Royce, has brought this matter before the association of his own volition for its consideration. In July I visited the National Home at Santa Monica and was agreeably surprised to find all departments of that home conducted in such a systematic manner, everything about the grounds and buildings is clean and inviting, and I believe the management beyond criticism. Like the Yosemite Home, the National Home at Santa Monica is yet to be made, however, and under the direct supervision of Comrade Barrett, one of the directors of national homes, the day is not far distant when it will be second to none.

When the last member of the Grand Army of the Republic shall have passed away and the order has ceased to exist, shall we not have a system of graves, and standing about our graves as we so often have stood about those comrades gone before, say:

"Rest on, revered and sainted dead, Ne'er shall your glory be forgot, While Fame her record keeps, Or Honor points the hallowed spot."

We should foster and encourage them in every way and spur them on to renewed vigor in keeping up their organization, which I understand, is a healthy and prosperous condition today, hoping and praying that they will ever be true to their country and their flag.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Under the administration of Department President Mrs. Southworth, the past year has been as prosperous as any in the past, and nothing that could be done for the good of the order has been left undone by her. I find posts have visited more prosperous when they have relief corps as auxiliaries. Encouraged by the kind words and good deeds of the women, they look with brighter eyes to the motto of our order, and are more loyal to themselves and to each other.

As a member of the advisory board of the W.R.C. Home at Evergreen, I took pleasure in complying with the request of the president of the Home Association to visit the home in company with other members of the board. Asst. Adj.-Gen. Masteller also accompanied us. A report of the general condition of the home, as we found it, with such suggestions as it was deemed advisable to make, has been forwarded to the President; it is, therefore, unnecessary to recapitulate here. Suffice it to say, we found all the inmates happy and contented, without a word of complaint; and well they should be, under the circumstances, for if there is any place where all the comforts of a home—such as food, clothing, and shelter—can be found, it is there. Under the direct supervision of Mrs. Cook, Vice-President, who makes almost daily visits, everything is done for the inmates that can be done with the limited means the association has at its command, and it stands today a living monument, as it were, to the many noble deeds of the W.R.C.

Recognizing the fact that they are the wives, daughters, and sisters of comrades, we cannot but love and honor them, and believe they are as earnest in their endeavors to care for and administer to the sufferings of the old soldier, their widows and orphans, as any could be, under any circumstances. We can but deplore the fact that they are not united with the only order that is or can be auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, the W.R.C., and which, for that reason, is the only organization that can be officially recognized by this order, composed as it is of the wives and daughters of the loyal women of the land, gives a wide field of usefulness, and that, too, without drawing directly on the pockets of the comrades. We hope the day is not far distant when these two orders will be united, under the name of the W.R.C. of America, in the great and good work in which they are both so earnestly engaged.

It is an organization that any State would be proud of, and though the Department of California claims it as its own, the whole State points to it and boastfully says: "Those are our boys." I thank them for the many courtesies shown me on all occasions.

To the members of my staff and others, who have, on many occasions, discommoded themselves to accompany me on my visits, and especially to Comrade Arbuckle, Commander of Cass Post, and to all comrades of this department, I desire to extend my heartfelt thanks for the many courtesies I have received, and the genuine comradeship and true friendship you have shown me at all times, and believe me that when I surrender the trust you imposed on me one year ago, I shall not surrender my interest in the Grand Army of the Republic, nor my love for a comrade.

I believe the department is, financially and otherwise, in as healthy condition as ever was. The utmost care has been taken as to strict economy in every particular. In the administration of all the affairs of the department I have been ably assisted by the officers of my staff, and especially by Comrade Masteller, Assistant Adjutant-General. Not only faithful in the discharge of the duties of his office, but anticipating my every wish, he has been a true man and a true friend. He has accompanied me on all my visits and aided me in endeavoring to obtain new interests for our order in the breasts of all comrades. I shall esteem it an honor to have him, as now, my friend and comrade as we both shall live.

To Comrade Wiegand, Assistant Quartermaster-General, I give the thanks of the department for the faithful manner he has conducted the affairs of his department. As in the two years before, so in this, he has saved the department many dollars.

To my successor I say in all sincerity, both of these officers have been tried and found true, and I would commend myself to them, and I would commend them to your favorable consideration.

May he who rules over all watch over all of you and yours, and keep you in health and prosperity.

Yours in F. C. and L. J. B. FULLER, Department Commander.

On motion of Senior Vice-Commander Seymour, a telegram was sent to Gov. Markham asking him to sign the bill appropriating money to outfit the Yosemite home for the next two years.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The annual report of the Junior Vice-Commander, C. J. Boskowitz of Carson City, Nev., was next presented, being read by Asst. Adj.-Gen. Masteller. The report stated that the first reunion of the G.A.R. ever held in the State of Nevada was celebrated at the home of Custer Post No. 5. It was an affair which will be remembered by many of the comrades as one of the most enjoyable ever held on this Coast. Its success was in a great measure due to the presence of the Department Commander and his escort, the Veteran Guard, in behalf of the people of Nevada, the writer of the report wished to thank the Commander, the Veteran Guard and all comrades who honored them with their presence.

The report of Medical Director P. J. Aiken of Winters was then read. In this it was stated that there had been fifty-five deaths during the year. Of these deaths, four were caused by wounds received in the service, and twenty-three by disease contracted in the service. The number of soldiers and sailors tended free of charge was sixty-three, and the expense for these things mentioned was $1466.25.

The report of Department Chaplain A. B. Morrison contained several reminiscences and numerous patriotic expressions. It urged that the comrades should prepare for the final inspection.

Asst. Adj.-Gen. T. C. Masteller read his report containing statements in regard to the condition of the several posts, and Department Inspector George A. Crall then read his report, treating of the number of posts, their financial standing, and other matters.

Assistant Quartermaster General Eugene Wiegand read his report containing an account of the receipts and disbursements. The amount of the former was $4158.83, and of the latter $3835.19.

After the report of the Council of Administration, read by M. F. Tarble, an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first business taken up in the afternoon session was the nomination and election of department officers.

In a neat speech Col. C. Mason Kinne placed in nomination for Department Commander E. C. Seymour of San Bernardino. Three or four other comrades seconded the nomination, with remarks very complimentary to the Senator Seymour, and the Assistant Adjutant General was instructed to cast a ballot for that gentleman.

The choosing of a Senior Vice-Commander was next taken up, and the names of W. B. Maydwell of Sacramento, Fred Banta of Fresno, H. S. Smith of Oakland, and W. W. Stone of San Francisco were placed in nomination. Comrades Smith and Stone withdrew their names, and the ballot was cast, in which Banta received 123 votes and Maydwell 115. On motion of Comrade Maydwell, the election of Comrade Banta was made unanimous.

Magnus Tait of Los Gatos was nominated by W. H. Seams for Junior Vice-Commander, and was unanimously elected.

Dr. A. C. Keating of San Bernardino was unanimously elected Medical Director, and Rev. A. B. Morrison was re-elected Department Chaplain.

The following named gentlemen were nominated for members of the Council of Administration: William Young, of Logan Post, Los Angeles; J. H. Garrett, Lincoln Post No. 1, San Francisco; Capt. A. F. Dill, Helmsheim Post, San Diego; W. B. Maydwell, Sumner Post No. 8, Sacramento; L. S. Butler, Frank Bartlett Post No. 6, Los Angeles; C. H. Blinn, Thomas Post No. 2, San Francisco; John Brooker, Bidwell No. 140, Norwalk; T. E. Ketchum, Stockton.

Col. Butler withdrew his name, and a ballot was taken. The counting of the ballots was not completed, however, and will be finished this morning.

The following named gentlemen were nominated for delegates to the National Convention of the G.A.R., to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., next August: T. K. Stauter of San Francisco, H. J. Shoulters and J. M. Alexander of Los Angeles, Charles I. Wilson of San Francisco, Gen. William Vandever of Ventura, J. C. Stout of San José, C. T. Rice of Riverside, John Hopp of Newcastle, J. A. Mahone of Post No. 8, Comrade Wells of San Francisco, John T. Sullivan of Santa Cruz.

These names will be balloted for at 2 o'clock today, and four members of the board of the State Veterans' Home Association will also be chosen at that time. Seven delegates to the National Encampment will be selected.

STATE ENCAMPMENT NEXT YEAR.

The principal business to come before the encampment this afternoon, besides that mentioned above, will be the choosing of a place at which to hold the department encampment next year, and the installation of the newly-elected officers.

The prevailing sentiment seems to be in favor of Oakland, with Sacramento running as a good second. San Bernardino and San Diego are spoken of, but the majority of the comrades think that a location farther north than the two places last named will be chosen.

THE SOUVENIR PROGRAMME.

A neat souvenir programme has been gotten out which will serve as a pleasant reminder of the time spent at the encampment. It contains ten pages, including the neatly-printed cover. On the outside of the front cover is a model of the G.A.R. badge, while the inside contains a list of the department officers as of the local posts. There is also a general programme of the encampment and other information, besides a list of those who contributed to the fund for the entertainment of the veterans.

PARADE ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Chief of Staff requests that his aides shall meet him at Armory Hall at 9 o'clock this morning.

Carriages for disabled veterans will be in readiness on Main street between Third and Fourth streets at 9:30 o'clock.

The carriages for the Ladies of the G.A.R. will be in waiting at the Hotel Ramona at 9:30 o'clock and those for the ladies of the W.R.C. will be at the Hollenbeck at the same time.

The Department Commander and Past Department Commanders will have carriages waiting for them at 9:30 o'clock at the Hollenbeck.

ORDER OF MARCH.

The order of march will be as follows:

Platoon of police.
Marshal and staff.
Bands.
Department Commander and staff.
Past Department Commanders.
Delegates to the encampment.
Frank Bartlett Post No. 8.
E. M. Stenhouse Post No. 10.
John F. Godfrey Post No. 93.
Kenesaw Post No. 106.
John A. Logan Post No. 139.
Fort Litchfield Post No. 137.
Drum Corps.
Veterans from Soldiers' Home.
Visiting comrades.
Sons of Veterans.
Crippled veterans, in carriages.
Woman's Relief Corps, in carriages.
Ladies of the G.A.R., in carriages.
Mounted police.

The column will form on the east side of Main street, south of Third street, the right resting on Third street at 9:30 o'clock a.m. The formation will be in two ranks in close order, and will be by the flank in wide, open order, each man on stepping off taking and maintaining three paces distant. Troop, flank and rear from the nearest in the ranks throughout the march. The column will move north on Main street, countermarching at Arcadia street, reviewing at the corner of Sprigg and Second streets at the Hollenbeck Hotel, and disbanding at Fourth street.

RESPECTFULLY DECLINE.

The following was received last evening from the W.R.C., with the request for publication:

"The Woman's Relief Corps desire to announce that while they fully appreciate the honor given them by the local committee in assigning them a place in the parade of today, they most respectfully decline to participate in the procession."

When the "boys in blue" were marching to the front over a quarter of a century ago, the loyal women of our country stood on the sidewalks and cheered their fathers, brothers, sons and lovers.

Today they propose to do the same, only they will not parade themselves, and desire no further recognition than to know that they are the auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic.

ENCAMPMENT AT SANTA BARRERA.

A meeting of the Council of Administration of the Southern California Encampment Association was held yesterday morning for the purpose of deciding on a location for the next encampment. There were offered received from Ventura, Coronado, Redondo and Santa Barbara. It was decided to hold it at the last-named place, the time of holding it to be decided later.

WILL VISIT THE COLTON FAIR.
Another urgent invitation was received at G.A.R. headquarters yesterday for the veterans to visit the Colton fair, which was stated in case it could be arranged for a stop-over at Colton the fair would be kept open an extra day. The invitation was accepted, and the veterans will be given an opportunity of witnessing the exhibit. Owing to previous engagements the stay in Colton will of course be very limited.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Second Day's Session of the Encampment.
There was an increased attendance at the second day's session of the S. of V. State Encampment, which convened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Odd Fellows' Hall, Pasadena. The day's proceedings were conducted behind closed doors, and only routine business was transacted. Late in the afternoon quite a lively dispute was stirred up as to whether or not the meeting should adjourn. Some of the delegates wanted to elect officers then and there, but the opposition prevailed, and adjournment was finally made until 2 o'clock this afternoon. This will be the closing day of the encampment.

W.R.C. AND LADIES OF THE G.A.R.

Business Sessions of Both Organizations—Officers Elected.
The ladies of the W.R.C. and G.A.R. attended strictly to business all day yesterday, the sessions opening at 10 o'clock in the morning and it was 6 o'clock last evening before the W.R.C. adjourned. The principal matter of moment was the election of officers. A nominating committee was appointed, consisting of Mes. Sarah Davis, Viola Kenyon, Lulu Calvin, Annie E. Koonen, Gertrude Smythe.

Nominating Committee of the Home Association—Irene Gibson, Elizabeth Biles, Josie Wilder, Mary McCullough, Addie Sylvester.
Henrietta Cook, President of the Women's Relief Corps Home Association situated at Evergreen, San José, read a very interesting report concerning the work of the home during the past year. Two deaths have occurred during the year, and there are now twenty-seven inmates.

Elizabeth D. Arce Kinne read the report of the Department Corresponding Secretary.
Sarah J. Farwell, who was appointed to take the place of Gertrude Gallagher, resigned.

Five army nurses being present, they were invited to the rostrum and saluted. These patriotic women were Margaret Hayes, Adeline Miller, Rachel Reed, Priscilla Ashton and Mother Ransom. Four visiting members from other departments were introduced: Mrs. C. M. Griswold of Westminister, Mass.; Emma E. Forsythe of Minnesota; Mrs. M. V. Logan of Ohio.

A delegation of ladies from the G.A.R., consisting of Mes. Ballou, Paulk and Hinckley, were announced and most cordially received. Mrs. Ballou extended the greetings of the G.A.R. ladies in a speech full of cheerfulness and goodwill, and the W.R.C. President, Mrs. Southworth, responded in a like vein.

After these courtesies had been exchanged, the election of officers absorbed the attention of the members, and resulted as follows:

President, Abbie E. Johnston, Los Angeles; Senior Vice-President, Mrs. Mary C. Farmer of Vallejo; Junior Vice-President, Florence E. Moore, Santa Barbara; Treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Davis, Riverside; Chaplain, Mrs. Annie E. Koonen, San Diego.

A delegation from the G.A.R. Convention, consisting of Department Commander J. B. Fuller and his staff, with the newly-elected Commander, E. C. Seymour, called upon the W.R.C. Convention and made many pleasant remarks.

Handsome souvenir programmes of this, the twenty-sixth Annual Encampment, Department of California, G.A.R., were distributed to all the delegates and members present, also some orange wood paper knives, suitably inscribed and with a pepper spray painted on the handle.

G.A.R. LADIES.

The G.A.R. Ladies held business sessions at G.A.R. Hall, morning, afternoon and evening. The work done was mostly of a routine character, save the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Helen Justice, Los Angeles; Senior Vice-President, Carrie M. Deveraux, Santa Rosa; Junior Vice-President, Sarah A. Wilson, Oakland; Treasurer, Eleanore Anderson, San José; Chaplain, Mattie Soper; Counselor, Sarah A. Metcalf, San Francisco; Conductor, Helen Justice, Los Angeles; Guard, Phoebe Jenkins, Los Angeles; Trustees, Eliza Grathem, Mary King and Pacific Nichols; Counselor of Administration, Mes. Brewer and Scholten of San Francisco and French of Santa Rosa; Delegates to the National Convention, Eva French, Delegate at Large, Laura Brewer, San Francisco, alternate; Delegates, Lydia Hinckley, Eleanore P. Anderson; alternates, Mes. Addie L. Ballou and Mary M. Crawford.

A circle of G.A.R. Ladies has been formed in Los Angeles with thirty-five members.

AT ARMORY HALL.

The Columbian Carnival Presented for the Benefit of the Veterans.

Last evening the veterans, members of the Woman's Relief Corps and G.A.R. and the Sons of Veterans made a grand rally at Armory Hall in response to the invitation extended by the local W.R.C., who presented the Columbian Carnival—an entertainment particularly appropriate to the occasion, introducing many patriotic characters and the heroes and heroines of the Grand Army.

The ladies made an effort to secure one of the theaters for the occasion, but as both had plays on the boards this was impossible, so a stage was improvised at the lower end of the hall. A magnificent flag was hung from the ceiling over the stage and festooned back to the wall, forming a patriotic setting of stars and stripes. Smaller flags formed the flies, and handsome floral pieces graced the platform, a fado of calla lilies facing it. The hall was literally packed. Chairs had been placed on the lower floor and in the galleries, and when these were filled hundreds stood in the rear and at the sides. Department Commander Fuller and staff, Gen. C. Allen and wife of Sacramento, Gen. E. P. Johnson and wife occupied seats at the left of the front row.

It was nearly 8:30 before the orchestra struck up the opening number—a medley of patriotic melodies, which found ready appreciation and response from the old soldiers. When the strains resolved into the familiar "Marching Through Georgia," the enthusiasm broke loose into cheers and applause, and the crowd took up the song and sang with a will.

Previous to the opening of the carnival, Mrs. Dr. Austin, of the Stanton Relief Corps, came forward and introduced to the visitors Mrs. Lulu Calvin, Junior Vice-President, of this city, Frank Bartlett Corps, who made a graceful speech of welcome. Mrs. Southworth of Stockton, Department President of the W. R. C., responded in a neat speech and graciously overlooked the recent storm in a climatic compliment which was received with great delight.

An enthusiastic comrade, at the close of these mutually complimentary addresses, presented a check for the W. R. C., which were given with a vim. The carnival then opened, the herald, Miss Minnie Bowman, announcing each character as she appeared, and for two hours the audience was entertained by a performance which was in every way enjoyable, over fifty people in costume participating.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

The Best-sugar Enterprise.

ANAHEIM, March 20, 1893.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] A few of us began, about seventeen months ago, to work up this great enterprise among the people on the cooperative plan in order that the farmers might reap all the benefits from its establishment, and as they had no money, it was organized on the basis of each citizen's ability to contribute. We raised the necessary amount of funds, provided 3000 acres were devoted to the company. We held meetings at the schoolhouses, cross-roads and wherever we could get men to listen, and found that after a year's work we had only succeeded in getting about eleven hundred acres decided in. Arrangements were all made just before the election last November for outside parties—capitalists—to make up the other 1900 acres, but when it was found that the country had gone Democratic, it threw such a shadow of uncertainty on the sugar business that our capitalists refused to go any further in the business. Of the 1100 acres subscribed, Anaheim had come up with about 400, although the proposed erection of the plant near the town should have stimulated its citizens to have taken the whole 1900 acres remaining. But we have a peculiar people here. Many of them don't want the town to grow, fearing that it would bring in new and progressive elements, and then they would have opposition. One of the largest merchants here said: "We don't want the town to grow any larger, for if it does, we shall have to compete with goods store to compete with me. The town is large enough."

We found that whatever support was given the best-sugar enterprise in Anaheim was given by a few whose sole object was simply to "boom the town." When we urged them to put in their acreage we were always met with the query: "Where will it be located? If located in Anaheim, I will subscribe something."

Their greed and selfishness required that this enterprise, which must be located in the midst of the farmers—the best-raisers—should be located in the town, without any regard to water, drainage or other elements of suitability.

It is true that we organized a "land company" in Anaheim and got about twelve hundred acres "subscribed," and that "land company" subscribed 1200 acres to the sugar beet company, but this "land company" never owned an acre of land, and out of $42,000 subscribed to purchase this 1200 acres, only about $400 was ever paid in after ninety days of labor to get that, and at the rate they were progressing, it would have taken about thirty-seven years to have collected enough to purchase the lands to make their subscription good. We urged upon the "land company" the necessity of deeding in their land to make their subscription good and make them stockholders in our sugar beet company, but they coolly informed us that not an acre of their land would go in unless the factory site was located at a certain point south of town named by them. We were anxious that they should deed their land to the company, so that they might vote on all propositions, and had they done so they could have determined the location of the factory site. The directors of the beet-sugar company did all they could to aid and encourage the "land company" to get its subscription of 1200 acres, but they did not propose to let a few narrow-minded men, without an acre decided to the company, without having complied with any of the requirements necessary to become stockholders, wreck and ruin an enterprise which was designed to bless and profit the farmers, simply to "boom" some abandoned town lots. They were told that when they deeded their land—as a hundred stockholders had done—then they could vote and shape the destinies of the company.

E. P. Fowler or F. J. Capitani—either one of these gentlemen—has spent out of his own private means five times as much as the whole town of Anaheim in order to get this beet-sugar factory started. Each of these gentlemen has deposited $8750 to pay for 350 acres, which each has subscribed to the Cooperative Beet Sugar Company. They have both spent many months of time and hard, earnest labor, and much money to organize this cooperative scheme; and what have their slanderers done? Nothing but to sit and snarl and fling mud at an enterprise that their brains could never grasp. Messrs. F. Conrad and Fritz Rutherford are worthy, enterprising gentlemen, both of them helping us along. Mr. Kroeger and Mr. Koenig are both rich, but they have never aided this enterprise, and never will.

If Anaheim waits for these gentlemen to build a sugar factory, it may possibly be completed when they celebrate the eight hundredth anniversary of Columbus. We expect to have work progressing on the sugar factory in a very short time, despite the hostility of the slanders of this dead and finished town. We feel grateful for the help of those who have stood by us here, and they are worthy of all praise. They are the men who give our town whatever life and progressive character it has. Were it not for these men our town would not only be kept alive, but it would be saved from ruin. If the negotiations now pending are successful we shall soon have $400,000 capital, and the work will be pushed with all possible speed. Then Anaheim will reap a large degree, the benefits of a great industry that she has done but little to build, and the enterprising men and women here who have helped to make it a success will have to look elsewhere for the appreciation that is their due.

Yours,
"Sacramento is Doomed."
LOS ANGELES, March 19.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Relating to the removal of the capital of our State from Sacramento, the writer does not notice that the danger, the position of Sacramento as a city is shown up in the light that it deserves to be. I know something of the danger befalling that locality. Situated in a low flat section, not far above tide water, the whole country adjacent to the river is being rapidly covered with a sediment deposited from the foothills of the Sierras; and this is not alone caused by the hydraulic miner, by any means, as with each season's planting of the foothills to fruit. In former times, the annual break in the river is denuded of its natural protective against washing, and left to the mercy of the heavy and sudden rains. The water does not hesitate to say that without any hydraulic mining whatever, the seepage water would eventually and its way all over the present streets of Sacramento. We might then look for an injunction against removing the brush from the foothills and planting fruit, thereby rendering them liable to wash and deposit sediment in the river channel and valley below, making an impediment to navigation, and being very injurious to places so unfortunately situated as Sacramento. At present disaster is only averted by the annual break that occurs in the levees, both above and below Sacramento. With each break millions of yards of sediment finds its way out and onto the lands of the farmers along the river. To many of them this is beyond doubt a blessing in disguise, as thousands of acres along the Sacramento formerly rated as alkali and goose land are now productive beyond measure, when the water is off long enough in summer time. And all this hue and cry against the hydraulic miner was the greatest piece of folly our wise men, as legislators, ever listened to, and has never compensated for

A Unique Corner of the Earth!

That's Coronado Beach. Do you know where it is? Coronado Beach is the peninsula forming the breakwater of the Bay of San Diego, and is situated in the extreme corner of the United States, 124 miles south of Los Angeles and 15 miles from Old Mexico's border land.

Do You Know What Coronado Beach Is?

It is the Paradise of the Pacific, the Mecca of tourists in search of rest, health, sport and diversion. It is a "Land of Sunny Days," where care is a stranger and worry a dead letter. Where dyspeptics forget their ills and pessimists are born again, where sick people get well and well people get fat. It is the Utopia for globe-trotters and the land of Acadia for lotus-eaters.

A Night in June.

Rich is the scent of clover in the air,
And from the woodbine, moonlight and the dew
Draw finer essence than the daylight knew;
Low murmurs and an incense everywhere!
Who spoke? Ah! Surely in the garden there
A subtle sound came from the purple crew
That court wistaria masts, and there's a clew
Of some strange meaning in the rose-scent rare;
Since itself has voice in these June nights—
Who spoke? Why, all the air is full of speech
Of God's own choir, all singing various parts.
Be quiet and listen; hear—the very lights
In yonder tower, the waving of the beach,
The maples' shade—cry of the heart of hearts.

On such a night spoke raptured Juliet
From out the balcony, and young Rosalind
Wandered in Arden like the April wind;
And Jessica the bold Lorenzo met;
And Perdita her silvered lilies set.
In some quaint vase, to scent the Prince's mind
With thoughts of her; and then did Jacques and Sad tales, and from them bitter sayings get.
To all of these the silence sang their thought
To all of these it gave their thought new grace;
Soprano of the lily, roses' love
And passionate contralto, oak boughs' bass—
All sing the thought we bring them, be it fraught
With the sad love of lovers, or God's own.

If you are in search of reasonable-priced dress goods this is the place to find them; if you want wool suits for $25 to $75, we can't expect your trade. We go into the class of goods the great majority buy. We do not sacrifice style for cheapness, neither do we sacrifice quality for profit. A little judgment will show you at once that good styles can be had in moderate priced goods. Take fancy weaves in Scotch effects at a dollar a yard and you get style and at the same time moderate prices; plain goods at 75c to a dollar a yard and you get richness without loudness; then use either silk or velvet with nice passementerie and you will then have a dress at an economical price that is far superior to high-cost loud effects in pattern suits. Reasonable priced dress goods in the best styles; nothing trashy; nothing that you would be ashamed to wear. You secure the benefit of the largest stock of moderate priced goods by looking through our big 100 feet of dress goods counter room. Another new lot of dress trimmings; all sorts at medium prices, 6c to 60c; ten to a dozen different colors in each lot. More silks for trimming; more new velvets in plain and two-toned effects. Actual bargains in real kid gloves. Yesterday the counter was lined from end to end with buyers; $2 and $2.25 real kid gloves now $1.25; hooks, buttons, mousquetaires, all best brands; Villas, Foster, Tre-fousse, Chaumont, Fontaine, Angelona. Where can you find better gloves? Why pay 75c to a dollar more for the same goods? A dollar and a quarter for the choice of 10,000 pairs—the largest kid glove stock you will find anywhere. Have you seen the new spring capes, Bolera jackets and French military capes? You will find them in the largest cloak department; take the elevator, and while there see through our corset department. Royal Worcester corsets from a dollar up; perfect fitting in every way; a regular dollar corset in another make for 50c; a few $2 corsets are put in to complete the sizes, and they go at 50c; if the sizes are right we know the prices are. Baby caps as neat as a pin, 25c; fine silk caps a little higher but worth the difference. The largest infants' outfitting department in the city. Reasonable prices. All these are to your advantage. A few new things today in the millinery department; more soon.

A DEEP MYSTERY.

The Inquest on the Pearl Street Suicide.

Dependency the Only Cause Shown for the Girl's Act.

She Had No Trouble of Any Character So Far as Known.

What the Friends of the Deceased Say About Her—A Previous Attempt at Self-destruction by "Turning on the Gas."

There are yet many mysterious circumstances to unravel in connection with the strange suicide which occurred at No. 871 South Pearl street Monday evening.

Beyond the brief note left by the girl, stating that she was about to commit suicide on account of her many troubles, no cause for the act has yet been discovered. More than that, it could not be ascertained that the deceased had any serious troubles to weigh upon her mind.

All day yesterday the body of the dead girl lay at the morgue. A great number of morbidly curious people flocked about the undertaker's rooms, according to their usual custom, but were informed, as they rightly should have been, that the remains were not on exhibition.

The coroner's jury was summoned at 2 o'clock, and proceeded at once to the inquiry.

Thomas S. Fuller was the first witness examined. He stated that he lived at No. 871 South Pearl street and that Nellie Seymour had been employed in his house as a domestic since a short time before Christmas up to the day of her death. He and his wife had always found the girl of quiet disposition and ladylike manners. When she first entered his employ she resided with her parents in East Los Angeles. Some six weeks ago the latter determined to remove to Tucson, Ariz., and at first Nellie decided to go with them. On second thought, however, she determined to remain with Mrs. Fuller, to whom she was much attached. Monday morning at about 10 o'clock, Mr. Fuller said that he and Mrs. Fuller started out to visit Mrs. Fuller's father in another portion of the town, as they were frequently in the habit of doing, leaving Nellie in charge of the house.

There was a horse in the stable, and Mr. Fuller prepared a grain for its feed and left it on the kitchen table, requesting the girl to place it in the animal's manger at 12 o'clock. This Nellie readily agreed to do, and Mr. and Mrs. Fuller left with a parting word. They returned at about 5 o'clock. Mr. Fuller took out his key to unlock the front door, but found that there was a key on the inside. He then tried the knob and the door opened readily, it having been left unlocked. As the door was opened a strong smell of gas was perceptible. Mrs. Fuller was the first to notice it, and she ran into the house at once, calling loudly to Nellie. No one answered, and the lady, pushing her way toward the kitchen, opened the door of a room at the end of the hall and fell over the girl's body, which was lying on the floor in a heap. Mr. Fuller at once seized the girl and carried her out into the open air, while Mrs. Fuller found the open jet from which the gas was escaping and turned it off. A doctor was summoned at once, and although the body was yet warm, all efforts at resuscitation were unavailing.

Mr. Fuller further said, in answer to a question of a juror, that he had never known the girl to keep company with any young men, she going out very rarely and then usually on a visit to some of her female acquaintances.

An unmailed letter found in the room, addressed to Frank Dixon and signed by Hattie Martin, was then read to the jury, as was also the note written in Nellie Seymour's handwriting, to Mrs. Fuller, before referred to. The letter spoke of a social gathering which was to be held at Miss Martin's house, and the writer also stated that Nellie wanted to know whether a young man really liked her or not, as she wished to ascertain what her conduct should be toward him.

Miss Hattie Martin was found by the reporter at her home on South Walnut street, late in the afternoon, and consented to tell what she knew about her friend.

"The last time I saw Nellie was on last Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller went down to San Diego on the Sunday previous and left Nellie to take care of the house. I went over to keep her company, and remained until Thursday evening."

"Did she ever intimate to you that she intended to commit suicide?" asked the reporter.

"Well, she once said that she felt just like turning on the gas jet and dying, as she was so lonesome, but I never believed that she meant it, and laughed her out of the humor, telling her she should not think of such things."

Miss Martin then went on to say that during the four days that she had remained with Nellie the latter had appeared much the same as usual, although frequently evincing signs of nervousness. On one occasion the doorbell rang while the two girls were in the kitchen, and Nellie went to answer it. The visitor proved to be a peddler, and soon left the house. Nellie closed the door, but when she came back to the kitchen her face was pale as a sheet, and she exclaimed: "Hattie, there is something white standing in the parlor door!" This frightened Miss Martin very much, and the two finally went into the parlor, but saw nothing of Hattie's strange apparition. The girl would not be content, however, until her friend Hattie had moved all the objects in the room, and looked behind the piano and all large articles of furniture. She complained no more, however, of seeing strange sights.

During the time her friend stayed with her she often referred to a feeling of homesickness which she had experienced since her parents and relatives had moved away, and gave Miss Martin to understand that she intended going to Arizona to live with them in the latter part of the week. The letter noted as being signed by Miss Martin the latter said had been written at Nellie's request on one of the evenings of her stay at the Pearl street house, but that she had no intention of mailing it. The person referred to was a young man whom Nellie had only met a short time previous to the Thursday evening the two young men called, and the girl sat and talked with them, awaiting the return of the Fuller family. After Mr. and Mrs. Fuller arrived Miss Martin left for home, Nellie going with her as far as the front gate, where, Miss Martin said, she acted in a rather singular manner, bursting into tears and saying, "Good-by, if I don't see you any more."

When asked whether the girl had ever before attempted suicide, Miss Martin replied that she did not believe so, although Nellie had told her that on one occasion she had come very near death by leaving the gas jet open, but that the lady by whom she was employed at the time happened to come into her room at midnight, discovered the odor and turned off the flow. This, she explained, happened before she was accustomed to the use of gas, blowing it out instead of turning the cock.

Miss Martin said she had known the deceased for over six years. The Seymour family, she stated, were residents of Los Angeles when her people moved out here. They had lived very close neighbors much of the time until their removal a short time ago, to Arizona. In the Seymour family there were four boys and three girls. Nellie, aged 18, being the oldest. Nellie had always manifested a strong attachment and affection for her mother, and brooded much over the separation from her. Nellie was by nature a modest and retiring girl, going out but seldom and always being very careful of her company.

Mary Walters, another of the suicide's girl friends, saw Nellie for the last time in life Sunday evening, when she called on her home at East Los Angeles. Nellie was in a despondent mood at that time, and again threatened suicide. She asked Mary which would be the easiest way to die. Her friend speedily endeavored to change the subject and relieve her of the idea, but she constantly returned to it, also saying that she had tried to do so before, but that her mistress came into the room and discovered the escaping gas before she was able to carry out her object. When the open jet was found Nellie excused herself by saying that she had forgotten to shut it off.

To other persons speaking of her homesickness, Nellie had said that she could not live away from her mother. Mr. Fuller was the only witness examined before the jury, Coroner Cates deeming his evidence sufficient. The jury, however, was in an unsettled frame of mind, and desired that a post-mortem be held before it rendered a verdict in order to determine whether the girl had in any way compromised herself as a possible cause to which the suicide might be assigned.

The examination was held late last evening, with the result of relieving any and all suspicion that such a condition existed.

The examining physicians will state to the witness stand that Nellie Seymour was above reproach.

Unless her mind was affected, the cause which drove her to her death remains yet to be revealed.

WRECKED A TRAIN.

The Trial of Frank Warner Commenced.

Charged With Obstructing the Santa Fe Track Near Duarte.

Causing a Smashup in Which Several Persons Were Injured.

The Story of the Disaster as Told by the Engineer and Fireman—The Testimony of the Brakeman—Identifying the Prisoner.

In Department One of the Superior Court yesterday, R. Frank Warner, a comparatively young man, appeared before Judge Smith and a jury to answer to the charge of having on November 28 last maliciously placed an obstruction upon the track of the Southern California Railway Company near Duarte. He was represented by Calvin Edgerton, Esq., while Deputy District Attorney Dupuy conducted the prosecution.

The work of selecting a jury to try the case occupied the whole of the morning and half an hour of the afternoon session, the following jurors being finally agreed upon: W. C. Bell, L. E. Boyer, F. C. Gaby, S. D. Crow, A. E. Dixon, O. B. Hall, D. E. Hall, R. King, J. Lowe, E. Luke, J. Loosmore, and A. Phelps.

The first witness called for the State was Louis L. Baker, who testified briefly to the effect that he was an engineer in the employ of the Santa Fe road. On the evening of November 28 last he was driving locomotive No. 643, attached to train No. 1, westward bound. About 5:45 o'clock, shortly after leaving Duarte, and while the train was running at a fair rate of speed, the engine struck some object on the track, was derailed, and fell over on its right side, hurling him through the cab window into the ditch. He was severely cut on the head and badly shaken by his fall, but managed to crawl out from under the wreck and was carried to the baggage car by some of the train men.

George Hittley, a young Englishman with a decided cockney accent, which afforded the jurors and spectators considerable amusement, testified to the effect that on the night of the accident, he was driving No. 643. When she struck, which she did without any warning whatever, he was sitting on his seat on the left side of the cab. He was following the engineer through the window, but got caught by one of the rods, and was suspended for a few moments. Finally disengaging himself, however, he dropped on his hands in the ditch and crawled toward the engine through the escaping steam. Upon crawling out of the wreck he went to the baggage car, where he found the engineer.

R. W. Fowler, a brakeman on the train, testified that he was sitting in the smoker, the third car from the engine, when she struck. He felt a sudden jar and then the car jumping on the ties, and got out as soon as possible fearing that the car would be "tele-scoped." Upon going forward he found the engine lying across the track on its right side. The train was partly turned over, one end of it being stuck into the front of the baggage car, which was derailed. The mail car, immediately behind it, was also off the track, but on the opposite side of the rails. After searching for the engineer for some time without getting red and white lamps and walked ahead of the wreck to stop train No. 4 and prevent a collision, but it was late and he got as far as Monrovia, two miles away, without meeting it. The news of the accident was then telegraphed ahead by the agent, and shortly afterward the wreck was turned over to the road and a hand-car with the section gang. About six hundred yards west of the wreck he left the hand-car and remained on the track, and about fifteen minutes after the gang had left him there, the defendant, who was carrying a bundle of blankets and looked like a tramp, walked up to him. Witness asked him what he was doing there, and defendant asked him how far it was to Azusa. Witness told him he was going in the wrong direction and repeated his question, when defendant replied that he was looking for work; that he had been out drinking with the boys, and was hungry. Witness took compassion on him and told him that as the cars would remain on the track all night he could go back and sleep there, where it was warm, and defendant then turned and walked back toward the wreck. The night was pretty dark at that time.

Conductor W. A. Dunn was the next witness. He testified to the effect that at 12:17 o'clock on November 28, defendant boarded his train at Glendora. He had a bundle of blankets with him. When witness asked for his ticket, defendant gave him $1, said he wanted to get off at Azusa, and asked witness to "go easy" as that was all he had. Witness gave him 80 cents change and went on through the train, but after leaving Azusa he saw defendant still on board, and he was looking for him to get off. When the train reached Duarte witness put him off.

Joseph G. Hensley, a farmer, who resides within 100 yards of the spot where the accident occurred, testified to the effect that he was standing with Dan Thrasher on the porch of a friend's house, 100 feet from the Duarte depot, at noon on November 28, and saw defendant put off the train. Warner threw his blankets down on the depot, and walked up past the house, where witness stood, but turned round and walked up on the porch, muttering to himself. He damned the company and railroad men in general for having mislaid the station at Azusa; also for putting him off the train. He then went to Brann's saloon, but was put out, and after loafing round the house, he ordered away, and went back to the depot for a witness. He subsequently saw the wreck, and identified the cause of the accident—a huge rock, weighing 210 pounds, which was offered in evidence, as having been found by him next morning, together with a piece which had been chipped off it, when the engine struck it. It had the appearance of having just been turned up out of the ground, and a fresh hole in the ground, near the track, exactly corresponded with the shape of one end of the rock. Witness's hired man had hauled a load of rock across the track, and he knew the hole, and no such rock had been dropped from the wagon, because he walked along behind it.

Daniel H. Thrasher, of Duarte corroborated the witness Hensley as to defendant's actions after being put off the train, and after the close of his testimony, court adjourned for the day, the matter going over until 10 o'clock this morning.

A New Eucalyptus.
[Exchange].
The newly introduced lemon-scented gum (eucalyptus citrodora), as described by a bulletin issued from the State University, is destined to be popular in this part of the State. Von Mueller says it is a native of Queensland and generally found on sterile, stony ridges. Its adaptability is, however, seriously limited by its susceptibility to frost. It withstands heat and drought remarkably, and, under favorable conditions, is a very rapid grower. The timber is very strong and desirable. Its leaves are richly supplied with a lemon-scented oil, which is a commercial product in Australia; the leaves are also used in houses for their fragrance. They contain no eucalyptol which gives the characteristic odor to all other species which we have introduced.

PASADENA.

Let the Citizens Extend a Royal Welcome to the G.A.R.

The Paving Project Has Sprung Into Popular Favor—Operative Attractions—Personal Notes and Brevities.

Friday morning the members of the State Encampment, G.A.R., will be in Pasadena for about two hours, during which limited space of time it is proposed to show them the best that the town affords. The visitors will leave Los Angeles at 8:30 o'clock on a special train, and will arrive here twenty minutes later. The Committee on Arrangements again calls upon all citizens who can furnish carriages to have them on Raymond avenue south of Hotel Green by 8:45 o'clock, so that no time may be lost in starting. After the ride the visitors, accompanied by a number of Pasadenians, will again board the cars for a trip around the city.

THE PAVING PROJECT SPREADING.
The paving project, once so unpopular and which has been brought to its present happy status after long years of waiting and no end of lively disputes, is now the fact. The original proposition to pave only the business portion of Colorado street was very wisely extended by the City Council to include Raymond and Fair Oaks avenues over their most traveled sections, and now that asphaltum has been selected as the material, property-owners from all sections of town are coming to the front to urge an even further extension of the pavement. Charles Leggett, who owns a majority of the frontage on Raymond avenue, between Union and Walnut streets, wants the pavement extended north to the last named thoroughfare, and is willing to pay for it. Some of the East Colorado street owners are advocating an extension of the work in that direction. It is the same thing over again on West Colorado street, and the question has been seriously discussed of paving all of Orange Grove avenue south of Colorado street. The same thing applies to cement sidewalks, which are being laid in all sections of town at the instance of the property-owners. Pasadena is growing in more ways than one.

A COMING CONCERT.
The Estrada Guitarr and Banjo Club will give its first concert at the opera house next Monday night under the direction of C. S. de Lano of Los Angeles. The club will be assisted by Mrs. W. B. Clapp, soprano; Miss Alice Coleman, accompanist; Prof. G. A. Hough, recitationist, and B. W. Whomes, banjoist.

The following programme will be rendered:
(A) "Darkie's Patrol." (b) "Fairy Footsteps"—Guitar and banjo club.
Solo, "I'd Fly With Thee"—Mrs. Clapp.
"Herdman's Galop"—C. S. de Lano.
Reading—Mrs. Hough.
"Longing"—Guitar club.
"Glad Quickstep"—Members of the club.
"Rippling Stream Waltz"—Guitar and banjo club.
"Leonore"—Mrs. Clapp, with guitar accompaniment by Miss A. Glass and C. S. de Lano.
On the Mill Dam—Members of the club.
Character sketch—Mrs. Hough.
Tambour Battant—Guitar club, with banjo obligato by Miss Weingarth and Mr. de Lano.
"Visions of Rest"—waltzes—Guitar and banjo club.
The members of the club are: Guitars, Mrs. Mary C. Corbin, Mrs. Nellie C. Cooper, Miss Alys Glass, Miss Bertha McCoy, Miss Lizzie B. Weingarth, Miss Maud Jones, J. T. Prince, banjos, Miss Alys Glass, Miss Grace Weingarth, Miss Katherine L. Rogers, G. H. Miner, J. C. Campbell and G. H. Cole. The officers are: President, G. H. Miner; vice-president, Miss Grace Weingarth; secretary, J. T. Prince; treasurer, Miss Alys Glass.

CHURCH FESTIVITIES.
The "white" tea at the First Congregational Church Thursday evening promises to be a dainty as well as a substantial affair. The arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. G. A. Gibbs and Mrs. Benjamin W. Hahn. Mrs. I. M. Willard and Mrs. D. D. Hill will preside at the tea tables. Mr. Greenendyke and J. D. Graham will dispense chicken salad. Following the tea some musical numbers will be given by Mrs. J. D. Graham and others. Miss Helen Hill has kindly consented to give a reading.

THE HOMELESS CHILDREN.
One of the infant boys of the Children's Home was taken to a distant part of the State to a good home on Monday. Dr. Townsend desires to return thanks to the following merchants, who contributed provisions to relieve the expense of the dinner by the Columbian Restaurant last Friday: Kennedy & Co., one sack potatoes; Breiner & Coby, two legs mutton; Herrick & Co., fish.

A BROWNING LECTURE.
Rev. William G. Spaulding delivered the first of a series of lectures on Browning's poems Tuesday afternoon at the Carlton parlors in the presence of a small but appreciative audience. Besides discussing the art of music, as illustrated in Browning's poetry, Mr. Spaulding read several of the poems. Schumann's "Caravan" and other illustrative compositions were delightfully rendered by Miss Coleman on the piano.

PASADENA BREVITIES.
See the new goods at White's.
The Pomona College Glee Club will give a concert here next week.

The private car of the late Allan Manvel was side-tracked here yesterday.
Special sale of Mexican drawn work at Mrs. Farr's studio, Raymond avenue.

Frank Palmateer has returned to San Bernardino after a short stay among his friends here.

Tuesday the weather took a turn for the better. In the afternoon the wind veered around to the west, and the day closed in a delightful fashion.

E. C. Webster returned from Perris Monday, where he has been winding up some mammoth real-estate deals, with his customary alacrity.

Miss Kate Sanborn will give a reading the early part of next week in the parlors of the Presbyterian Church, for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society.

O. W. Kyle is thinking of giving J. Palgrave Simpson's "A Scrap of Paper" at the opera house some time soon by a company composed of well-known amateurs.

M. L. Clark fell from a chair on which he was standing yesterday in his office, and painfully injured his side. The injuries are, fortunately, not of a serious nature.

The members of the Spanish dance in the Pagoda of the Rose met for rehearsal yesterday afternoon at the Carlton parlors. Another meeting will be held at 3 o'clock today.

The guests at the Roberts' house were pleasantly entertained at progressive euchre Monday evening. Prizes were won by Messrs. Pettit, Roberts, Parker, and Messrs. Root, Hunt and Roberts.

DR. HONG SOI has graduated and received his diploma from the medical schools and Universities in Canton, and made his first professional practice, for many years in the hospitals of Canton and Hong Kong, China. He is the sixth of a generation of doctors in his family, and has made thorough studies of all diseases of the human body. The doctor has had wide experience as a physician, and during his long stay of six years in Los Angeles has made many skillful cures. The doctor cures CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATISM, BRUISES, HEADACHES, INDIGESTION, WAKEFULNESS AND NERVOUS TROUBLES, AND ALL DISEASES that the human body is heir to, by natural herb medicines, freshly prepared every day. No opium or poisonous drugs are used.
For two months I suffered with pain in the bladder. Three doctors treated me, each one giving a different cause for the trouble, but doing me no good. Took Dr. Hong Soi's medicines for two weeks and was entirely relieved of all pain.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

They are Over Their Heads in the Water.

Considerable Damage Was Done by the Rain Monday.

Communication Cut Off from North, East and South.

One Freight Train Went in the Ditch—Bridges That Floated to the Ocean—Runners Santa Fe Change.

All of the railways entering Los Angeles suffered considerable damage from the late rain. Traffic in all directions is obstructed. On the Southern Pacific the washouts played more or less havoc on all the lines. The big trestle-work over the Tejuanca, about fourteen miles north of Los Angeles, was washed out, fully eighty feet of the timber work being carried away. A pile-driver was set to work at both ends of the break, and it was officially stated that trains could be running to and from San Francisco some time this morning, though no definite time could be given. A rumor of a landslide at Tehachapi could not be confirmed. Several washouts occurred on the Yuma line at Whitewater, near Beaumont, but they were repaired before last night. Two bridges of a bridge on the motor road, over the Santa Ana River, between San Bernardino and Redlands, went out, but it was expected to have the structure in shape again by this morning. There were three bad washes on the Santa Ana branch of the Southern Pacific between Florence and Downey. No trains were run over that line yesterday.

The Southern California lines of the Santa Fe were in a bad shape all day yesterday, but the management made strenuous efforts to repair the breaks. A landslide at Garvanza kept all the west-bound trains on that line tied up at Lincoln Park all of Monday night. Slight washes on the line between Los Angeles and San Bernardino were soon doctored, and now the line is open from Los Angeles to Bartow.

A wash between Colton and East Riverside cut out a section of the Kite-shaped track, but this will be repaired today. At this point a freight train went off the track, derailling about five cars, but doing little damage. The San Diego line suffered two bad washes. The bridges over the San Mateo River at Capistrano and San Luis Rey River at Oceanside were washed out, completely blocking traffic on the Coast Line. It was said at the general offices that the line will be open today.

The Los Angeles Terminal road had another serious experience, and at the same place as a recent one. About three hundred feet of track washed out on the San Pedro line below the station of Workman. Though efforts are being made to repair this, no time can be set for the opening of the line.

Capt. Ainsworth of the Redondo Railroad says his line had three or four small washes, which did no damage beyond delaying trains.

There must have been some serious trouble on the Atlantic and Pacific, as trains were badly belated and telegraph wires were down. The Santa Fe gave notice that no oranges or other perishable freight would be received until further notice. There are several cars of oranges in transit, which, it is feared, will be damaged by the delay.

RUMORED SANTA FE CHANGE.
An Associated Press dispatch from Sedalia, Mo., received shortly after 12 o'clock this morning, says it is reported that J. J. Frey, formerly general manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway, has been appointed and has accepted the position of general manager of the Santa Fe system for California and the West.

Manager Wade was seen at his hotel shortly after the arrival of the dispatch, when he told of its contents, said that he had received no intimation that any such appointment had been made. If it had, he did not believe that it would apply to the division under his supervision.

SCRAP HEAR.
H. E. Huntington and A. N. Towne of the Southern Pacific are expected to arrive from the North as soon as the way is clear at Tejuanca. Both are in bad health, and they make frequent trips to Santa Monica, where their families are now abiding.

The Santa Fe overland, due at 7:50 yesterday morning, did not get in until 6 p. m.

How to Make Homes Happy.
Those who contemplate building should provide during construction for a Hot Air Furnace. For estimates on this kind of work, call at P. E. Browne's, 314 S. Spring st., who makes this a specialty.

PERSONALS.
L. W. Allum, who represents THE TIMES at San Diego, is attending the G. A. R. encampment.

Gen. C. C. Allen, Adjutant-General of the State, is in attendance at the G. A. R. encampment, and will remain several days.

O. O. Cullen, a member of the City Council of St. Paul, who has been visiting his brother, K. P. Cullen, at 674 West Jefferson street, returned home last evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Bull and daughter of Toronto, Canada, are guests at the Hotel Alhambra. They depart in a few days for an extended trip to Honolulu.

Col. W. R. Smedberg, Past Department Commander and a prominent member of the Loyal Legion, and Col. C. Mason Kline, are among the leading G. A. R. men in attendance at the encampment.

Capt. B. Berry and daughter, Mrs. Sue L. Bower, of Carthage, Mo., visited the grave of Capt. C. E. Berry, at Santa Ana Sunday. The deceased was a member of Sedgwick Post; he also organized Gordon Grange Post and was its commander for two years.

FRANKLIN typewriter, 800, Gardner & Oliver, 104 South Spring street.

LOS ANGELES vs. Stockton, Saturday and Sunday, March 25 and 26.

FOR a neat, clean, quick lunch try the New England Dairy, First street, near Broadway.

Arrival of the New Catcher.
Sheehan, the delayed catcher of the Los Angeles team, arrived from the East yesterday afternoon, and was given quite an ovation by the "fans," who were fearful that he had been lost in the shuffle somewhere. In one sense, Sheehan is a disappointment, especially to those who expected to see a man about six feet tall and big in proportion, which seems to have been the general impression in regard to him, probably on account of his name and reputation. He is, on the contrary, rather small, but shapes up well, and is a quiet, gentlemanly man, who is no doubt popular as he becomes acquainted.

The balance of the Cherubs were expected early this morning, having been delayed by a washout near San Diego.

World's Fair Notes.
The stamp flag made by the invalid woman, Mrs. Walton, for the World's Fair, will be on exhibition at the Chamber of Commerce next week.

Seven out of the thirteen pictures submitted by Los Angeles artists were selected for the California art department.

Commissioner L. J. Rose has refused to accept Mrs. Cole's resignation as lady manager.

Her Attraction.
She has no dazzling charms, no classic grace. Nothing, you think, to win men's hearts, about her.

Yet, looking at her sweet and gentle face. I wonder what our lives would be without her!

She has no wish in the great world to shine. For work outside a woman's sphere no yearning. But on the altar of home's sacred shrine, She keeps the fire of pure affection burning.

We tell our griefs into her patient ear. She whispers "Hope" when ways are dark and dreary. The little children like to have her near, And run into her open arms when weary.

Her steps fall lightly by the sufferer's bed. Where poverty and care around she lingers; And many a weary heart and aching head Find gifts of healing in her tender fingers.

She holds a helping hand to those who fail, While gently guides them back to paths of duty. Her kindly eyes, with kindly looks for all, See in uncomely souls some hidden beauty.

Her charity would every need embrace. The shy and timid fear not to address her; With loving tact she rightly fills her place, While all who know her pray that Heaven may bless her!

Today the great annual contest between Oxford and Cambridge Universities takes place upon the Thames course between Putney and Mortlake.

This is the fifty-first race since 1829, and the forty-third contest over the Putney-Mortlake, four-mile course first adopted in 1845. Oxford has won twenty-seven and Cambridge twenty-three of these races between eight-oar crews, and the event is one of paramount aquatic interest in England.

Another event of paramount interest to all tourists is our display of curios from California, Mexico, China and Japan. Our stock is complete, and prices very low. In looking around for a souvenir be sure to visit the largest and oldest curio store on the Pacific Coast, which is the

ONLY NINE DAYS.

Remain of the $5.00 a Month Rate

For Catarrh and All Diseases Arising Therefrom.

Those Who Wish to Avail Themselves of This Remarkably Low Rate Must Do So Before April 1.

Catarrh, and all diseases arising therefrom, treated both locally and constitutionally at the rate of $5.00 per month, and all medicines furnished free until cured.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.
Complicated With Inter-Costal Neuralgia and Accompanied With Violent Heart Symptoms.

For several years I have been troubled with catarrh, which I think was caused by cold drafts rushing through my store, upon the door being opened by my customers coming and going at any rate I was constantly with a cold during the spring and winter months. My nose kept discharging all the time, the mucus dropped back into my throat and a ringing noise in my ears at times. I kept up a continual hacking and spitting, but was unable to discharge the mucus from my throat.

E. A. CARLSON, Corner May and Bodwell streets.

My trouble continued in this way until last December, when I suddenly became worse. My stomach seemed to give out all at once. During the day I would be attacked by severe fits of hunger, but I was unable to eat for what was to me formerly delicacies, but after eating a few mouthfuls a complete disgust at the food would come over me. I was rapidly losing flesh and growing weaker every day.

My heart would palpitate frightfully, and a cold, calm perspiration would ooze from every pore of my body. I was pale and saw. My rest was broken. I slept only by fits and starts. I was troubled with hideous dreams. I thought the hand of death was upon me. My wife often would have to wrap me closely in a hot blanket if I bob, aching pains along my spine, and my end tire left side seemed to be paralyzed, as it was cold and numb. My left hand and left foot would swell and pain me so much that they were scarcely of any use to me. In fact mine was indeed a deplorable condition.

Under the care of the first physician with whom I placed myself, I grew no better. My wife became alarmed and I discouraged. I called another physician, who refused to undertake my case, stating that he believed my trouble to be organic heart disease. I then began the use of various kinds of medicines, liberally recommended through the columns of the daily press.

Upon reading the many recommendations of the treatment of Dr. De Monco and associates, I decided to make an effort. I called on these physicians at their offices and placed myself under their care. I began to improve from the first treatment. In fact their immediate success in my case was wonderful. All heart disturbances left me, my left arm and leg have resumed their normal condition, my stomach performs its functions well, I now sleep soundly, and on either side, while before it was impossible for me to lie on my left side. I with pleasure recommend Dr. De Monco and associates.

During the month of March Dr. De Monco and associates will treat Catarrh and all diseases arising therefrom at the rate of $5.00 a month and furnish all medicines free until cured. For all other diseases the rate will be low and uniform.

Their Mail Treatment.
In addition to their office treatment and for the benefit of those who cannot visit them, they have "question banks" which they will send to you upon application by mail. Be sure to answer question carefully, for upon this depends the success of their treatment. Medicines will be promptly shipped to your address.

Peoples Store
SAFEST PLACE TO TRADE

OUR first day's opening on Saturday last was beyond doubt the greatest event in Millinery circles that ever took place in this city. The department was handsomely decorated with natural pinks, varied colored foliage and beautiful plants. The artificial flowers on display vied with the natural for supremacy, and it was difficult to tell one from the other. The curtains were drawn and a numerous varied colored lights, parlor, fairy and banquet lamps shed a beautiful coloring over the magnificent collections of hats and novelties that ushered in the spring season. The reception was held and attended by more people than we anticipated, and the universal plaudits were as expected it would be—that our hats were the prettiest and the creations the most novel and unique that had been displayed up to date. The display in our show windows re-echoed that in our parlors and evoked a great deal of creditable comment for our enterprise and ingenuity. We are never undone; our opening will continue today and tomorrow, and if you have an eye for the beautiful or love for the artistic, come in and see our Millinery creations. If you have not seen the show window do so today, as it is the last day it will be on exhibition, and it is well worth your while. We will simply say that our Millinery is the finest in town, none excepted, and our prices lower than any one's. Upon this basis we invite your patronage.

Millinery.

WE call your attention to our display of Novelty Patterns, ranging in price from $5 to $20, and each and every one of them is value at 50 per cent. more. We are using every endeavor to interest the Los Angeles public in our Dress Goods Department, and are making the prices for quality in accordance therewith. The dress goods department of this house will be the main department in the future; if you have not been in to see what we are showing it would be a very pleasant half hour or longer at your pleasure to have our clerks show you the novelties in silks and dress goods that we are displaying in prices ranging from 50c to $5 a yard. This house has been in business for twelve years. Its word has never been doubted; it has always led in everything that it has undertaken, and when we tell you that we are selling things cheaper than any other house in town for a similar quality, the truth of that assertion is verified in the fact that our trade is ever increasing and our storeroom space is ever enlarging.

Dress Goods.

YOU want to buy your Furnishings, Hats and Underwear from the concern that gives you the best value for your money. We claim to be that house of all houses in this town. Why? First, because we buy more goods than any other retailing concern in this town in dollars and cents per annum; buy them cheaper and sell them closer. We buy from the manufacturer in case lots and we sell for cash only. We have one price that gives confidence in the goods; there is no dickering. If the quality and price suits you take it; if not, you leave us no debt. We call you back when you get to the door; we do business on a business basis. We sell our goods as low as we possibly can, one article as low as half a dozen.

We have received the latest block of Men's Derby Hats in black and new shades of brown; the price is $2.50; we guarantee that there is not another house in town that will sell you this quality of hat under $3.00. A line of Gent's Neckwear at 50c; you'll find a better value than elsewhere; they are not one color, but the latest styles, the best in workmanship, and the quality of silk is one that is made to sell at 75c. Our Men's Underwear at from $1 to $2.50 a garment will interest you if in need. We placed an order on Saturday for fifteen cases of underwear for next fall's delivery. In Men's Overshirts we carry a line from 65c to $5 a garment, and we warrant every garment to be better made than anybody else's, unless they handle the same goods; they are warranted not to rip with ordinary wear, and if they do we stand ready to exchange them.

Shoes.

A NEW man in our Shoe Department took up a shoe and complained of its being good value at the price it was marked. We told him to go to the other shoe houses in town, inspect the same price shoe and report. He did so, and told us that he begged our pardon; that ours was a far better shoe than anything he saw. This is an actual fact; we sent him out purposely, knowing that he would be convinced that our shoe leather was the best obtainable in this part of the country for the money, and sell them with like confidence. We are selling the best makes of shoes that we can find at the most reasonable prices. We are selling a class of shoes that we warrant to wear; we would not have a manufacturer's goods in our house unless he would warrant the wear of them to us so we could stand back of them to our customers. Now, if you are looking for ladies' or men's shoes that will wear, that have style, fit and durability at popular prices, we would be pleased to show you what we carry. It is no experiment; it is the result of years of careful study and hard-earned experience. One of our customers told us the other day that he had been in eight different stores looking for Hanan & Son's shoes, and they told him in each of the eight that that line was not carried in this town. Each one of these eight shoe dealers ought to carry a sign around his neck labeled "Finest Merchandising." If any one comes into our house and asks us for an article that we don't carry, and we know who handles it, we are not so far lost to all honor and manhood that we would refuse to tell him. We send customers from our house every hour in the day to our competitors in different lines, thinking it a duty we owe the purchasing public that if we have not the article to direct them where it is to be found.

We have received a new line of Men's Shoes; we are selling them at $3.75; they are the finest shoe for the money that was ever built; are on the Bunker out, latest style lasts and contain an exceptional quality fine calf. Our line of Boys' Shoes are made by the firm of Lilly, Brackett & Co., which is in itself a guarantee for best workmanship and good wear. Our Men's Shoes, ranging in price from $5 to $7.75, in calf, Cordovan and patent leathers, are made by Hanan & Sons, the very best makers of men's fine shoes in the United States. In ladies' shoes the quality we show at $2.00, $3.50 and $5 are the very best that the money will buy in any State in the Union; they are made in the very latest lasts and are most stylish. Our children's line of extension soles, patent leather tips,

A HELP TO SAVE Your Ten Cents a Day . . . . .

The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak.

Some people find it hard to save.

The Times' helping hand.

You drop it in the slot.

Of course, now you know how, you'll do it.

You can't get there unless you know things.

There's one text-book on everything.

The latest edition is the ninth.

The most complete is the ninth edition.

Easy way to secure it.

A fair proposition.

There's no charge for looking at it.

How you can go about it.

It's a good deal easier than you ever thought.

No one is strong enough to do everything himself. We all want help of some kind.

Saving is hard to some people. Some of the greatest minds the world has known found it impossible to save a cent. Sometimes this is because of poverty, sometimes carelessness, sometimes forgetfulness.

The Times has thought of this. It has provided a "Daily Reminder," a Monthly Calendar and Dime Savings Bank combined. You get one free with the Encyclopedia.

You drop your dime in every day—you can't help but do that—and at the end of the month you have enough saved to pay off an installment on the Encyclopedia. And it's so easy to drop that dime in. You only do it once a day. Two car fares. Who ever feels the loss of two car fares?

This is taking it for granted that you want to own the Encyclopedia Britannica, but think you can't save enough to do so. It's hardly for any other reason, is it? It can't be if you are an American, a man who wishes to know everything, to do everything, to become everything, to attain to honor and wealth.

There's one path to this—knowledge. Knowledge is power. Power is potency to do, to become, all that one desires. You can't be powerful unless you know. You must be up to date, abreast of the times. Little use reading ancient text books.

Get the text-book of the age on everything—The Encyclopedia Britannica.

The great original NINTH EDITION, commenced some years ago, was only completed in December, 1889.

It is only revised and reprinted every fifteen or twenty years, and the Ninth Edition is, therefore, the very latest. The TIMES edition has been brought down to the present time. It is more complete than the Ninth English edition. Thirty thousand dollars has been expended in adding to it. Nothing eliminated.

The TIMES offers it to you for 10 cents a day.

You can get one volume sent you for examination, if you prefer, before ordering the set. We guarantee, though, that it is just as represented.

The TIMES will do this for you, or you can examine the entire work free at the TIMES Reading Room, 347 South Spring street. It's surely worth your while to do that.

As to getting it—you can get the complete set at once, paying $5 a month.

Or, again, you pay 10 cents a day (payable monthly) and get half of the complete set at once, the remainder to be delivered when the first half is paid for. You won't be able to do this for long, though. The TIMES can only keep this offer open for a short time. Those who take their chance when they get it are the wise ones.

THE AWARDS.

Premiums Announced at the Citrus Fair.

Ontario Gets Away With a Big Share of the Prizes.

Riverside Only Fifth Among the Locality Displays.

Washouts Keep Visitors Away Yesterday—
Talk of Keeping the Fair Open Until Saturday Evening—
Olive Oil Awards.

Colton, March 21.—[Special.] The attendance was again light today.
Washouts on the railroads kept many away.

Announced in THE TIMES yesterday, the fair will be kept open on Friday to enable the Grand Army visitors to see the show. There is some talk of keeping it open until Saturday evening, in order to compensate for the unfavorable weather.

The awards of the judges were made public this morning. As foreshadowed yesterday, the premiums for the best display of citrus fruits from any county went as follows—the only way they could go: First, $250, San Bernardino; second, $150, Riverside; third, $100, San Diego. There being no displays from other counties, the fourth display of $80 was not awarded. San Diego may consider itself lucky that there were not two more counties exhibiting.

The premiums for the best display of citrus fruits from any locality were awarded as follows: First, Colton, display of $250; second, Redlands; third, fourth, Colton; fifth, Riverside; sixth,
Perris; seventh, South Riverside; eighth,
San Diego. The only other locality exhibiting was Rialto. The awards in this class are not open to criticism, except that the prizes should have preceded Perris, unless quantity is given precedence over quality.

For artistic designs, the following premiums were awarded: First, Hatch & Wood, Ontario; second, Friend & Freeman, Ontario; third, I. N. Hoag, Redlands; fourth, W. C. Fuller, Colton; fifth, A. S. Fox, Colton; sixth, E. S. Van
Laven, Colton; seventh, T. S. Ingham,
Highland; eighth, L. M. Holt, Rialto.

The award of the two first prizes to Ontario for displays on the same table, which were practically identical in design, would better have been avoided, but the judges were probably forced to the decision for lack of enough "artistic designs" to go around. The eighth premium, to Rialto, was probably a "consolation prize" to a section which failed to "get there" in the locality class.

The other awards were as follows:
CLASS IV—Budding and Seedling Oranges. Best general display of budding and seedling oranges grown by exhibitor: First premium, $100, W. C. Fuller, Colton; second, $75, Fox & Barnhill, Colton; third, $50, E. F. Van Laven, Colton; fifth, $30, N. J. Hudson, South Riverside; sixth, $25, J. J. Van Nest, Rialto; seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth, no exhibits to award to.

CLASS V—Lemons. Best display of lemons grown by exhibitor: First premium, $100, J. W. Freeman, Ontario; second, $75, E. M. Hatch, Ontario; third, $50, Dr. McDonald, Ontario; fourth, $40, W. S. Corwin, Highland; fifth, $30, J. Van Nest, Rialto; sixth, $20, G. L. Walker, Colton; seventh, no exhibit to award to.

CLASS VI—Packed Oranges. Best box of packed oranges ready for shipment: First premium, $50, Mrs. L. Webb, Chula Vista, San Diego county; second, $10, A. S. Fox, Colton; third, $5, B. S. Colwell, Pala, San Diego county.

Davis, Banning, honorable mention.

CLASS XXVIII—Ornamental Shrubbery. The sum of $45 was placed at the disposal of the awarding judges in this class, to be awarded to exhibitors as merits of the displays justified. Premium, $5, T. C. Mason, Idelwild, San Bernardino county.

CLASS XXIX—Special Premiums. Largest number of varieties of citrus fruits. First premium, $25, E. M. Holmes, Riverside; second, $15, E. W. Hatch, Ontario; third, $10, W. C. Fuller, Colton.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MUSIC COMPANY. Among the exhibits from Los Angeles, that of the Southern California Music Company, 111 South Spring street, deserves special mention. This progressive and reliable firm make it a point to secure for their trade the very latest and highest-improved instruments produced.

An instrument which attracted particular attention on account of its beautiful tone and appearance was the Shaw piano. It is one of the Matchless Shaw piano, and, after a most critical examination, one can not help approving the word selected to describe it. Parties interested in musical matters should see it, by all means. There were also a number of different styles of the old reliable "Jockey" pianos, of which they are the representatives.

As stated in a previous letter, the eleven samples of oil from imported varieties of olives, entered for competition by Howland Bros., were not sampled by the judges, only a sample of Mission oil being tested.

It may or may not be that the Kimball oil is better than any of the twelve varieties from Pomona, but it is difficult to see how this fact could be ascertained without tasting.

The Ontario exhibit was arranged by J. C. Wood. H. E. B.

POLICE BUSINESS. The Usual Routine Saloon Business—Police for the Week's Fair.

At the meeting of the Police Commission yesterday morning there were present Mayor Beaudry and Commissioners Bradish, Boshyshell and Weidner.

On favorable reports from the Chief of Police in those matters, the following petitions for the transfer of saloon licenses were granted: From John Steiner, for the transfer of the license at No. 101 Requena street from John H. Kennedy to himself; from Anton Stern, for transfer of the license at No. 2134, East First street from C. H. Schmidt to himself, and from C. F. Gibbons, for the transfer of the license at No. 927 East First street from James Thorp to himself.

The City Tax and License Collector reported that the license of A. H. Scheneman, at No. 251 East First street, for March, was unpaid, and the license was revoked.

The Chief of Police reported on the petition for a license for Joeriman & Boswell, at No. 251 East First street, and the petition was granted.

The petition of L. E. Booker for the transfer of saloon license at No. 233 East First street from Claude F. White to himself was referred to the Chief of Police.

The City Clerk referred from the Council the demand of P. Bevoine for the $50 license paid for the saloon of M. Micaroh for February. This demand was approved to the amount of $37.50.

On motion of Commissioner Boshyshell the rule in regard to the saloon license was changed so that licenses not paid by the 10th of the month would stand revoked. The demands, as presented, were approved.

The Chief of Police presented a communication from Capt. John Bonfield, chief of the Secret Service Bureau at the World's Fair, requesting that two men be sent to the World's Fair from the police force of each city of more than 25,000. The home department is to pay their regular salary and the expenditure is to pay their car fare and $50 per month for expenses.

On motion of Commissioner Bradish the matter was referred to the Council with the recommendation that the request be granted, and that two men be appointed to fill the places of those who should go to Chicago.

After transacting other business of minor importance the commissioners adjourned.

Boiling Water in an Envelope. [Globe-Democrat.]

"I boiled a half-pint of water in an envelope once," said Harry Martinot, Texas traveler, whose headquarters have been at the Lindell. "It happened in this way: Myself and my wife arrived very late one night at a hotel in Fresno, Cal. It was a second or third rate hotel, convenient to the depot, and we had so much trouble getting in that we thought it no use—after we had been in the place an hour, and my wife wanted some boiling water—in trying to get it from the hotel people. After we had discussed the situation, my wife asked me if I had an envelope in my pocket. I got one out when she told me to fill it with water and hold it over the gas jet. I hesitated, but finally did it, and expected to see the envelope blaze up every moment. But it didn't. The envelope took on a little soot, but that was all. The water boiled in time, and the envelope was as good as ever when the experiment was at an end. I don't know the chemistry of the process, but try it yourself and see if it will not work."

Marriage Licenses were issued at the County Clerk's office yesterday to the following persons:

Andrew Lago, a native of California, 26 years of age, of Downey, to Evelina Valdez, also a native of California, 20 years of age, of this city.

W. C. H. Burdick, a native of Germany, 26 years of age, of Redlands, to Anna Richter, also a native of Germany, 29 years of age, of this city.

ORANGE-GROWERS.

A Small Meeting Held at Colton Yesterday.

Railroad Washouts Prevent a Full Representation.

Lively Discussion as to the Place of Next Meeting.

Colton Gets Another Small Plum—Another Meeting to Be Held There Next Tuesday—The Necessity of Harmony.

Pursuant to notice, a mass-meeting of orange-growers was held at the pavilion in Colton yesterday afternoon, to discuss methods of improving the condition of the industry, and endeavor to form some kind of an organization.

The meeting was held on one side of the music hall, the gathering waiting for the orchestra on the stage to cease playing. The washouts had, apparently, kept many away. There were about fifty present. As far as noticed, there was but one representative from outside of old San Bernardino county, and half of those present were from Colton.

The greater part of the time was taken up with a somewhat heated discussion as to the place for holding the next meeting.

E. W. Holmes of Riverside said he thought it not advisable to hold a regular meeting, owing to the washouts on the railroads. He thought it would be best to appoint a committee of three to call a meeting, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles.

J. W. Doran of Old San Bernardino was appointed chairman of the meeting, and W. E. Collins of Ontario secretary.

The secretary read the following dispatch from Los Angeles:

To the chairman of fruit growers:—
Colton. Detained as was expected, 3000 twelve-year-old orange trees and cannot get a single bid. Reason to believe middle men's organization prevents members buying here. It is fully time for growers to do something for future, as we are entirely at mercy of a soulless band of sharpers. If we cannot devise better plans, why not adopt the Florida auction?

E. W. Holmes urged the formation of local organizations to work in unison with each other. Riverside had, so far, been unable to accomplish anything.
Many growers would be unable to attend the meeting, therefore it would be better to hold local meeting and send delegates.

Then ensued a lively discussion as to the place where the meetings should be held.

L. N. Hoag of Redlands said the question as to the place of meeting should be decided here by a vote. Riverside and Redlands were the leading orange-growing sections. Why, then, go to Los Angeles?

The secretary remarked that Los Angeles was the best location. If an organization was to be successful, the sympathy of all growers must be enlisted. This thing has been tried before, and failed. They must stand shoulder to shoulder, and Los Angeles must be interested. San Bernardino county can do nothing if the minor sections hold out.

E. W. Holmes said the reason he preferred Los Angeles was because the meeting had formerly been a feeling of jealousy between the sections, Los Angeles claiming that San Bernardino held aloof. He thought they should meet Los Angeles on her own ground. When it came to marketing the crop, they could not get away from the fact that they must work in harmony with other sections, even if the quality of fruit raised in those sections was inferior.
He did not believe they would get many to attend if they called the meeting here.

An assurance was given that Los Angeles would extend the greatest courtesy and warmest welcome to the fruit growers, and that the Chamber of Commerce would be open to them.

The chairman thought that individual growers, as well as delegates, should be invited to the meeting, as many growers at remote points might not be able to attend the sectional gatherings.

Mr. Archibald did not think Los Angeles was a good place. It was too far from the leading producing sections.

W. Friend believed that Ontario would be about the right place.

E. W. Holmes moved to substitute
Los Angeles for Ontario as the place of meeting.

The previous motion and substitute were seconded, but before a vote could be reached the argument broke out again.

T. H. Chamberlin said he thought it mattered little where the meeting was held. The vital question now was, not the growing of oranges, but the marketing of them. [Applause.] Every other industry in this section depends on the proper marketing of the citrus crop.
This matter had been too much neglected. It was all right to build a pavilion to exhibit fruit, but if they didn't look after the marketing of it this would avail them little. They should hold meetings in all these cities, in order to get the sections to unite. Our homes and industries are involved in this question. Let us, said he, lay aside local differences. It would be better to hold the first meeting at a large commercial center, like Los Angeles. Local meetings could be held afterward.
[Applause.] He seconded the nomination of Los Angeles.

COLTON "INSULTED BY THE PAPERS." J. W. Roberts was strongly of opinion that Colton was the place for the meeting. They had oranges to show there.
The papers of Los Angeles had abused them. The growers were now going to Colton, or nowhere at all. They didn't want to be insulted by the papers.
They proposed both to grow and sell oranges. If Los Angeles wants to join us, all right. If they want to blackguard us, all right. He moved that the first meeting be held at Colton.

The motion was seconded by M. B.
Ogden, who remarked that delegates could come to Colton for 50 cents, whereas it would cost $3.50 to go to Los Angeles.

W. C. Fuller of Colton said that, with all due respect and fidelity to Colton, he thought it did not matter where they held this meeting. He further remarked that they must be very careful lest they form any organization with the least resemblance to a trust. Public sentiment was against trusts. They must bring the question down to one of individual integrity on the part of every grower. Let there be honest fruit and honest packing, then open the doors to all buyers. Any other course would prove a failure. If the object of the Los Angeles meeting was to hold up prices above that warranted by the legitimate demand and supply, then he was not with it. If the middlemen stand in the way let the growers send their own sellers East.

H. A. Puls of Riverside thought that every orange-grower was able to go to Los Angeles. They must have at least 90 per cent. of the growers in their organization or it would be a failure.
Still he thought it would be best to hold the meeting here.

The question was then put to a vote.
The Chair was in doubt. On a rising vote it was found that Colton had received twenty-four votes and Los Angeles fifteen. The Chair declared that Colton "had it," an announcement which was received with applause.

The question, however, was not yet settled. The temper in a report was not settled. The hammering was renewed, as if no vote had been taken.

E. W. Holmes said he thought it was a narrow way to look at the thing for people to vote for Colton merely because they lived there. However, he would do all he could to make the affair a success.

W. C. Fuller said that, as a Colton man, he regretted the speech made by Mr. Roberts. If that gentleman had been a Colton man he, the speaker

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Another Day Devoted to the Second-street Pavement.

Testimony of Men Who Have Examined the Work.

They Say the Specifications Have Not Been Complied With.

The City Engineer and Street Superintendent, With the Inspector, Insist That It is a Good Job—Contractors on the Stand.

The investigation of the Second street paving matter was continued by the Council yesterday morning. I. D. Stine was the first witness called. He showed some specimens taken from the work, among which was a sample of concrete which, he said, contained only one part of cement to nine of sand. The walk, in some places, gave out a hollow sound when struck, indicating that it was not of proper depth. Mr. Stine further testified that he made an examination of the work on the 14th of January. The under portion of it was, in his judgment, not good. He was not a bituminous man, and could not determine as to the bituminous portion of the work.

Mr. Lammie handed Mr. Stine a fragment of rock and asked him what proportions of sand and cement he believed were in it. He answered that he did not know. Being asked if he thought they were six to one, he said it was too strong for that. Being further asked if he believed the proportions to be half and half, he said he thought they were.

Mr. Lammie said that that was one of the pieces that Councilman Rhodes had seen him take from the bag of samples. Another fragment was handed Mr. Stein, who crumbled it readily. He thought the proportions in it were 6 to 1. He further testified that he had been hired to do this work by Mr. Griffith of the Citizens' Non-partisan Reform Association.

W. S. Chapman was next sworn. He testified that he was in the employ of Mr. Davies at the time the work was in progress, but not at present. While the pavement was being put down he had called the attention of Mr. Davies to the fact that the concrete was being washed out, and also called attention to other defects. He had been told that no interference was wanted from outside parties. When holes had been cut in the sidewalk the thickness in several places was only about two inches, although at one place it was four and a half inches. Last Wednesday, when the examination was made, the concrete in some places was found to be soft.

At that time there was some dispute as to whether samples should be taken from the new work, but some of them were finally taken from it. He had been present at least a part of the time at every investigation of the work made by the committee. At one of them the Board of Public Works had refused to permit the work to be broken up so that it could be seen.

Mr. Griffith was next sworn. He asked permission to make some explanation. He understood that Mr. Lammie had remarked the day before that they were all loaded for the Citizens' Non-partisan Association. He pointed out the object of that association and cited instances in which the committee had, he believed, secured a good deal of legislation favorable to the city. He had endeavored to bring the standard of the work on streets up to the specifications, without malice toward any contractor. He had the experience of the city had been that none of the contracts for street paving had been lived up to. He was with the committee of the Council last Wednesday and saw the holes made in the street. He was not an expert, but the street proper, he believed, was far below the standard. He took a sample of rock at that time and handed it to Wade & Wade to be analyzed for its proportions of cement. The committee hired I. D. Stein to examine some of the work.

Mr. Lammie wanted to know why they hired this man who was not experienced or who had not been in the business lately.

Mr. Griffith said that that man was hired when there was not much time to choose.

Mr. Lammie wanted to know of Mr. Griffith if he did not think that the members of the Council were of sufficient intelligence to attend to this matter.

Mr. Griffith answered that the duties of the city representatives were so great that assistance to them was not improper.

Mr. Lammie continued asking a series of long questions as to what motives prompted the members of this reform association to endeavor to assist the sworn city officers in the discharge of their duty. Objections were made to this on the ground that such questions did not tend to bring out the facts of the case.

Councilman Campbell wanted to know of Mr. Griffith what course he (Griffith) would have taken in this matter or what more he would have done had he been a member of the Council.

In answering Mr. Griffith said that he thought the committee might have had an analysis of samples of the work at the time when first complained of.

Councilman Rhodes said he wished to state that the samples taken last Wednesday were all from the old work and none from the new, as one of the witnesses had testified.

A motion by Councilman Nickell was adopted that a police officer should be sent after such persons as were desired in the investigation, requesting them to appear before the session of the Council.

A recess was then taken until 1 p. m.

Afternoon Session.
The Council was again called to order shortly after 1 o'clock, when City Engineer Dockweiler was put on the stand and was further questioned at length on the chemical analysis, going substantially over the same ground as was covered in his examination Monday. The Engineer finally admitted, however, in answer to Mr. Lammie's questions, that the tests made by measurement, instead of by weight, as had been done, it would have made a more favorable showing for cement, but to what extent could not be definitely stated.

The witness was then taken in hand again by Mr. Murphy, when he stated that there is a uniform rule that requires sidewalks to be three and a half inches thick, and that there were no exceptions to the rule. Three of the seven places measured were not up to the thickness required by the specifications. He, however, insisted that the work was good as a whole, and that as the faulty portions had been repaired, he thought that the street should be accepted.

Chemist Wade was then placed on the stand, and asked to explain Chemist Hance's analysis, but stated that he could not do so, and preferred to have that gentleman explain his own report. He was then questioned as to his own analysis, and agreed in substance his testimony of the previous day. He repeated that the only proper way to get at the facts in this case was to make the tests by volume, not by weight, as had been done.

I. S. Dehall, one of the property-owners, was the next witness. He said that the sidewalk in front of his place was bad. He had called the contractor's attention to the matter, when the contractor said that he was not present when it was laid, and he had taken up and put down about one-third of it over. He had signed the protest against the sidewalk only. The contractor had offered to make the work satisfactory to him, even to taking up and relaying the entire walk. He had made an arrangement with Mr. Polk, and secured a reduction by paying cash instead of taking advantage of the bond act.

J. M. Davies took the stand and detailed at length all he knew about the laying of the pavement, dwelling at length on the conversation between Chapman and Contractor Smith, telling his story, despite the objections of Mr. Lammie, who insisted that the witness should not give hearsay testimony. He stated what he knew about the acceptance of the street by Mr. Hutchins, saying the work was accepted by that official between Saturday and Tuesday morning, two holidays intervening, at what time he could not state. Mr. Davies also related the conversation between Chapman and Contractor Smith, and Councilman Strohm, which has been heretofore reported, and which did not materially differ from the published reports. Mr. Davies then made an eloquent plea for protection at the hands of the Council, saying that this was the court of appeal. It was not a personal matter with him, it was a public question in which all the people were interested. If the specifications had been complied with the contractors were entitled to their money, but the property-owners were entitled to have the sidewalk made as it was intended to be before they should be compelled to pay for the work.

In reply to a question from Mr. Lammie Mr. Davies indignantly denied that he was an obstructionist, and that he was a chronic objector, and Mr. Wicks stated that Mr. Davies had given him a check for $500.00, which he had also spent thousands of dollars in developing his property and incidentally improving the city.

Frank A. Weinschank was the next witness. He was satisfied with the work in front of his place, but thought that the amount of cement required by the specifications had not been used. His mother owned property on Grand street, and had signed the protest. One of the contractors had called on him Monday, and told him that he would see that $500 in bonds was returned to her if she would take her name from the protest.

Mr. Murphy stated that the protestants had but two more witnesses, but they were not present, and they were sent for.

There was some talk between counsel, when Street Superintendent Watson took the stand to explain the conversation which it was alleged took place between himself and Mr. Wicks. He denied that he had signed the report under duress, or that any one had offered him any inducements to sign it. He did tell Mr. Wicks that he had not signed the report, when that gentleman asked him. The reason why he had not signed the report was because a flush of water had been completed, and when this had been done he signed it. Mr. Watson was examined at great length as to the examinations made by him. He found that the roadbed was somewhat better than he expected, but the sidewalk did not come up to his expectations. If the matter was left to him, he would have the work done a further examination before finally accepting the work.

N. W. Stowell, an expert on cement work, was next examined. He was shown specimens of concrete from the street, and in answer to questions, stated that he did not consider the work good. He could not say what the proportion of cement was, a specimen of the sidewalk was shown Mr. Stowell, which he said was not objectionable. He had never seen a perfect job of any kind, either under a public or private contract. He would say, in a general way, that there was a general tendency toward poor sidewalks.

D. F. Donegan, the contractor, testified that he had made a number of measurements in the roadbed, and found that the work was up to the specifications, and gave the figures. He had also seen measurements on the sidewalks, and they were better than he had seen on the street. He did not think the measurements made by the committee were correct. He thought the pavement was a good job, and was of the opinion that the contractors were being persecuted. He was a street contractor, and knew good work.

Mr. Lewis, the inspector who supervised the work, testified that he had been at length, saying that the work had been properly done, and he considered the street a good one.

C. Leonard, a cement expert, also testified that he had made an examination of the work, and he was of the opinion that the job was a good one.

Mr. Murphy stated that he had two other witnesses, Messrs. De Garmo and Stoll, the cement men, and an officer was sent for them, but they positively refused to appear.

After some talk, Councilman Nickell moved that the City Clerk be instructed to issue a subpoena for Messrs. De Garmo and Stoll, in the name of the Council, citing them to appear this morning at 10 o'clock, which motion prevailed, and the Second-street matter went over until that hour.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

On the recommendation of the Land Committee, a quit-claim deed was ordered issued to the Solano heirs.

On motion of Councilman Campbell, the City Clerk was instructed to notify the captain of the chain gang that a day's work for the chain gang meant eight hours on the work.

The report of the captain of the chain gang, asking authority to employ additional teams, went over until today.

The following passed under suspension of the rules: intention establishing the grade of Ocean View streets; ordinance to Bonnie Brae streets; ordinance of intention to construct an eight-foot cement sidewalk on the west side of Grand avenue from Third to Fourth streets, and a twelve-foot cement sidewalk on both sides of First street from Geary street to Santa Fe avenue; dual ordinances establishing the grades of Michigan avenue from Lopez to State streets, Pennsylvania avenue from Lopez to Bailey streets, and Bailey street from Pennsylvania to New Jersey avenues.

Deeds for right-of-way for the outfall sewer were presented, and, on motion of Councilman Nickell, they were accepted and the clerk ordered to have the same recorded.

The contracts of Young & Mackey for the construction of section 5-A of the outfall sewer, for $27,980, and section 4-A for $31,033, were approved, and the Mayor was instructed to sign on behalf of the city. A demand for the jurors' fees in the cemetery case, which was won by the city, was approved, after which the Council adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

PETTY OFFENDERS.

The First Women Ever Convicted of Vagrancy—Cheney Lottery Case.
The usual number of drunks appeared in the Police Court yesterday, receiving sentences from five to thirty days each.

Ah Git paid $3 for violation of the swill ordinance, in Justice Seaman's Court yesterday.

Ada Blanchard and George Palmer now enjoy the notoriety of being the first women ever convicted in the city of vagrancy. They will be sentenced today.

The lottery case against Wong Chong was yesterday concluded in the Police Court, the defendant being found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $30 or serve thirty days in the City Prison. The case will be appealed.

S. A. Drummond of Lancaster got very drunk Sunday, but, when he sobered up later in the evening, felt very sorry for his conduct, and prevailed upon a friend to put up $25 bail for his appearance on the following morning. He was so ungrateful as not to come back, however, and the friend was obliged to settle the fine from the bail money deposited.

Three youths were brought in from Wilmington yesterday afternoon to serve sentences in the County Jail for singing "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" while the Salvation Army was holding services.

Boys Brigade Rally.

The Boys' Brigades of Los Angeles and vicinity are to have a big rally at Vincent M. E. Church, Twenty-ninth street near Main, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. There are eighteen companies in Southern California, many of whom will either be present in full ranks, or send delegates. The boys will appear in uniform and give a parade at the close of the exercises. Rev. Burt Estes and Rev. G. W. White are the speakers of the evening. The boys invite all their friends to be present and to come early to get seats. Take the Grand avenue cable, Maple avenue electric or Main street horse car to reach the church. There will be about two hundred boys present.

FOR GROWING CHILDREN.

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Correspondent.)

I know that the three little people of my picture demand a great deal of attention in the matter of dress, because they wear out and grow out of so many clothes. It is always so with the little ones, and points on their garments are always helpful and timely. The largest of the three wears a dress of dark blue cheviot, with tiny white dots, which is intended for a growing child. The waist and skirt of the lining are cut separately, and the latter is then gathered to the waist, but the upper dress is cut in one and closes in the back. The side front seams are rather curved as far as the shoulder seams, and are trimmed with revers of the same material lined with silk, and from two to three inches wide. A buckle is placed at the waist. The vest at the front can be made of white cloth and sewed to the lining or fastened with tiny white buttons in case a variety of vests is wanted.

The little toddler wears an accordeon-pleated coat made of rough, hard material to prevent the pleats drawing out. It looks well made either of dark red cheviot with the embroidery in black, or in blue or white with the embroidery in contrasting colors. The lining can be made of flannel and the pleated upper part is cut about an inch longer. The plain skirt is about nineteen inches long and two yards wide and gathered to the embroidered yoke. The puffed sleeve is pleated and gathered into a cuff decorated with revers of the same material lined with silk, and also sponging to that of the yoke and also the standing collar. The cap is made of the same material and the same color as the coat. It is cut in two pieces with the seam in the center and lined with flannel or silk. Between the lining and the material is a ruffling composed of ribbon an inch in width and the strings are three-quarters of an inch in width. It is trimmed with bows of ribbon.

The third costume is a blouse dress for girls from 6 to 8 years of age. The skirt and belt are made of dark blue cheviot, and the blouse of plaid silk in which red, blue and yellow predominate. The belt is a bias piece four and a half inches wide, has a piece of whalebone inserted in front and back to keep it in shape, and is finished at the top and bottom with rolls of velvet. It is laced with ribbon. The lining has a lining about two and a quarter yards wide, but the upper material must be three yards in width and one yard long. The dress closes in the back with invisible hooks and eyes.

PERSONAL MENTION.

THE COURTS.

The Cemetery Association Loses Its Damage Suit.

A General Verdict for the City on All the Points Raised.

Another Chapter in the Simpson Divorce Proceedings.

The Husband Must Either Pay the Costs as Ordered by the Court or Go to Jail—General Court Notes—New Suits.

The trial of the damage suit instituted by the Los Angeles Cemetery Association vs. the city of Los Angeles was concluded in Department Four yesterday afternoon, the jury to whom the matter was submitted at 2:30 o'clock, returning into court at 1 o'clock with a general verdict for defendant, and also finding for the defendant upon a number of special issues, which were submitted to that body at the request of plaintiff and defendant.

Owing to the fact that Juror B. B. Brown was unable to get into town from Lodi, on account of a washout, the case was argued and submitted, by consent, to the remaining eleven jurors, who, upon being polled, were found to stand 9 to 2 in favor of the general verdict, and 10 to 1 in the matter of the special issues.

This is the fourth suit brought by the cemetery association against the city, in every one of which they have been defeated—a fact which speaks well for the manner in which City Attorney McFarland has handled his cases.

MUST PAY UP OR GO TO JAIL.

Pursuant to a citation, George E. Simpson, the defendant in the divorce suit of Annie M. Simpson vs. G. E. Simpson, appeared before Judge Van Dyke yesterday afternoon to show cause why he had failed to comply with the order of February 28 last, requiring him to pay $10 alimony and $25 costs. He failed to show cause, and the court ordered him to pay the money; but it was shown by the plaintiff that for the past three weeks he had been living with a woman named Grace Thompson at a lodging-house on South Hill street, and that he had taken her to the theater and to the dancing place, and the court ordered him to pay the money, and to show cause why he had failed to comply with the order of February 28 last, requiring him to pay $10 alimony and $25 costs.

Howard and Rev. G. W. White are the speakers of the evening. The boys invite all their friends to be present and to come early to get seats. Take the Grand avenue cable, Maple avenue electric or Main street horse car to reach the church. There will be about two hundred boys present.

Several committees were appointed for active work in completing the organization, when the meeting adjourned.

TEXAS FEVER.

Written for The Times.
The third and last form of anthrax is splenic, or Texas, fever, and on account of the great losses it has caused to cattlemen, it has commanded much attention. It is a peculiar and fatal form of anthrax, known only in the United States, which has been observed whenever and wherever cattle from the Gulf of Mexico have been driven northward during the summer months.

The cattle communicating the disease are apparently healthy and vigorous, and continue so, though showing splenic enlargement when slaughtered.

Animals receiving the infection from Southern cattle, do not communicate it to other native cattle. This is so unless the cattle are kept in contact with this malarial soil with safety being turned over to other native stock which have not been exposed. Or, to put it in other words, no animal has ever taken the disease that has not been in contact with Texas or Southern cattle, or their excrement.

The deadly symptom noticed is generally a dead animal. But sometimes there will be observed an increase of temperature. The ordinary symptoms are drooping of the ears, checked secretions and sluggish gait. There is twitching and trembling of the muscles, depression and listlessness, which increases. The pulse is more frequent, respiration labored, the temperature is reduced, and the animal dies without a struggle. The most important characteristic symptom, which may be seen at all stages, is the painless evacuation of reddish black, sometimes coffee-colored, turbid urine, after standing twenty-four hours, throws down a brick-colored precipitate, which is sometimes streaked with blood.

The presence of this symptom should always be taken as conclusive proof of Texas fever, and other forms of anthrax. The importance of making this distinction may be readily seen, when we consider the importance of separating the sick from the healthy stock in the two last mentioned diseases, while it is unnecessary to go to this trouble and expense in Texas fever.

Missouri and Kansas have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in some years from this disease, but in this State it is a very rare occurrence; only one instance has come to my knowledge, in which case the cattle affected crossed the trail of stock driven from Western Texas, sometimes in contact with cattle brought from those sections.

The World.
The world is well when the world is at peace.

No matter how men deride you, For if you are patient and firm and strong You will find in time (though the time be long) That the world wheels round beside you.

If you dare to sail first o'er a new thought For a while it will scourge and score you; Then, coming abreast with a skillful tack, It will clasp your hand and slap your back, And show it was there before you.

Aye, many an error the old world makes, And many a sleepy blunder; But ever and always at last it wakes, With pitiless scorn for another's mistakes, And the fools who have followed go under.

The world means well, though it wander and stray From the straight, short cut to duty; So go ahead in that path, I say, For after a while it will come your way, Bringing its pleasure and beauty.

THE ATHLETES.

The World's Fair Athletic Tournament.

A Carnival of Sport—Athletes from All Nations of the Earth.

The Greatest Treat for the Lover of Sports.

Homer and the Swift-footed Achilles—The Men of 1893 Who Will Uphold the Honors of Their Country.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

Trained athletes from every country on the face of the earth where athletic sports are practiced, will meet in friendly rivalry in Chicago on September 14, 15 and 16 to celebrate in tests of strength, speed, endurance and skill the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus.

People who may think this an unusual manner of commemorating the great event are reminded that it is a very old-fashioned way—the way in which Homer had swift-footed Achilles observe the funeral of his friend Patroclus and Virgil, the pious Eneas, commemorate the death of his father, Anchises.

Preparations for this carnival of sport have already been under way for months. The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, which controls amateur athletics in this country outside the colleges, has appointed a committee of experienced managers to arrange all the details of the tournament. The Plan and Scope Committee, as it is known, consists of Howard C. Connelley, the Columbia Athletic Club of Washington, D. C.; Frederick K. Stearns of the Detroit Athletic Club, James E. Sullivan of the New Jersey Athletic Club, William B. Curtis, "father of amateur athletics," in the United States; Alexander G. Mills of the New York Athletic Club and A. G. Spalding of the Chicago Athletic Association.

There is no branch of sport whose claims this committee have not considered except, perhaps, skating. Everyone has heard of the negotiations under way at the moment to attract the great Oxford and Cambridge to meet the eight of Harvard, Yale and Cornell. Lovers of the rough but mainly sport of football may see exhibitions of that great game given by the eleven of Princeton, Harvard and Yale; and the nine of the same universities, with those of Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania may cross bats with the Western colleges and universities on the baseball diamond. Of course, lacrosse is not to be forgotten, and the twelve of leading American clubs will have long before the superior skill of Canadian teams.

Probably the greatest treat at the World's Fair for the lover of sports, however, will be the "field and track" athletic handicap and championship meetings. The handicap games are to take place on the fourteenth. The championships will be decided on the fifteenth. The original plan of giving the championship meeting the day following the handicaps was abandoned in order to give the contestants for championship honors time to recuperate.

On the programme for the 14th are the following events: 100-yard, 200-yard, 300-yard, 400-yard, 500-yard, 600-yard, 800-yard, 1,000-yard, 1,200-yard, 1,500-yard, 2,000-yard, 2,500-yard, 3,000-yard, 3,500-yard, 4,000-yard, 4,500-yard, 5,000-yard, 5,500-yard, 6,000-yard, 6,500-yard, 7,000-yard, 7,500-yard, 8,000-yard, 8,500-yard, 9,000-yard, 9,500-yard, 10,000-yard, 10,500-yard, 11,000-yard, 11,500-yard, 12,000-yard, 12,500-yard, 13,000-yard, 13,500-yard, 14,000-yard, 14,500-yard, 15,000-yard, 15,500-yard, 16,000-yard, 16,500-yard, 17,000-yard, 17,500-yard, 18,000-yard, 18,500-yard, 19,000-yard, 19,500-yard, 20,000-yard, 20,500-yard, 21,000-yard, 21,500-yard, 22,000-yard, 22,500-yard, 23,000-yard, 23,500-yard, 24,000-yard, 24,500-yard, 25,000-yard, 25,500-yard, 26,000-yard, 26,500-yard, 27,000-yard, 27,500-yard, 28,000-yard, 28,500-yard, 29,000-yard, 29,500-yard, 30,000-yard, 30,500-yard, 31,000-yard, 31,500-yard, 32,000-yard, 32,500-yard, 33,000-yard, 33,500-yard, 34,000-yard, 34,500-yard, 35,000-yard, 35,500-yard, 36,000-yard, 36,500-yard, 37,000-yard, 37,500-yard, 38,000-yard, 38,500-yard, 39,000-yard, 39,500-yard, 40,000-yard, 40,500-yard, 41,000-yard, 41,500-yard, 42,000-yard, 42,500-yard, 43,000-yard, 43,500-yard, 44,000-yard, 44,500-yard, 45,000-yard, 45,500-yard, 46,000-yard, 46,500-yard, 47,000-yard, 47,500-yard, 48,000-yard, 48,500-yard, 49,000-yard, 49,500-yard, 50,000-yard, 50,500-yard, 51,000-yard, 51,500-yard, 52,000-yard, 52,500-yard, 53,000-yard, 53,500-yard, 54,000-yard, 54,500-yard, 55,000-yard, 55,500-yard, 56,000-yard, 56,500-yard, 57,000-yard, 57,500-yard, 58,000-yard, 58,500-yard, 59,000-yard, 59,500-yard, 60,000-yard, 60,500-yard, 61,000-yard, 61,500-yard, 62,000-yard, 62,500-yard, 63,000-yard, 63,500-yard, 64,000-yard, 64,500-yard, 65,000-yard, 65,500-yard, 66,000-yard, 66,500-yard, 67,000-yard, 67,500-yard, 68,000-yard, 68,500-yard, 69,000-yard, 69,500-yard, 70,000-yard, 70,500-yard, 71,000-yard, 71,500-yard, 72,000-yard, 72,500-yard, 73,000-yard, 73,500-yard, 74,000-yard, 74,500-yard, 75,000-yard, 75,500-yard, 76,000-yard, 76,500-yard, 77,000-yard, 77,500-yard, 78,000-yard, 78,500-yard, 79,000-yard, 79,500-yard, 80,000-yard, 80,500-yard, 81,000-yard, 81,500-yard, 82,000-yard, 82,500-yard, 83,000-yard, 83,500-yard, 84,000-yard, 84,500-yard, 85,000-yard, 85,500-yard, 86,000-yard, 86,500-yard, 87,000-yard, 87,500-yard, 88,000-yard, 88,500-yard, 89,000-yard, 89,500-yard, 90,000-yard, 90,500-yard, 91,000-yard, 91,500-yard, 92,000-yard, 92,500-yard, 93,000-yard, 93,500-yard, 94,000-yard, 94,500-yard, 95,000-yard, 95,500-yard, 96,000-yard, 96,500-yard, 97,000-yard, 97,500-yard, 98,000-yard, 98,500-yard, 99,000-yard, 99,500-yard, 100,000-yard, 100,500-yard, 101,000-yard, 101,500-yard, 102,000-yard, 102,500-yard, 103,000-yard, 103,500-yard, 104,000-yard, 104,500-yard, 105,000-yard, 105,500-yard, 106,000-yard, 106,500-yard, 107,000-yard, 107,500-yard, 108,000-yard, 108,500-yard, 109,000-yard, 109,500-yard, 110,000-yard, 110,500-yard, 111,000-yard, 111,500-yard, 112,000-yard, 112,500-yard, 113,000-yard, 113,500-yard, 114,000-yard, 114,500-yard, 115,000-yard, 115,500-yard, 116,000-yard, 116,500-yard, 117,000-yard, 117,500-yard, 118,000-yard, 118,500-yard, 119,000-yard, 119,500-yard, 120,000-yard, 120,500-yard, 121,000-yard, 121,500-yard, 122,000-yard, 122,500-yard, 123,000-yard, 123,500-yard, 124,000-yard, 124,500-yard, 125,000-yard, 125,500-yard, 126,000-yard, 126,500-yard, 127,000-yard, 127,500-yard, 128,000-yard, 128,500-yard, 129

PREDICTIONS FOR 1993

Four Bright Journalists Forecast the Future.

GATH PLEADS FOR FEDERALISM.

Nym Crinkle Estimates the Probable Progress of Literature and the Drama—Denver Will Be as Big as New York—Views of John Swinton and Kate Field on Various Subjects.

(Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.)

The federalist founders of the republic of the United States, Jay, Hamilton and Washington, as interpreted by Marshall, Kent, Quincy Adams, Seward and Lincoln, are felt in our day through the decrepit or chaotic provincial states as the spinal life and brain of our system.

These opponents pass more and more to the rear as demagogues and confidence men as the superiority of our federal institutions and spirit are seen by the rising generations.

In proportion as the subsidiary states share this federal or national instinct do they rise to the success of the nation.

I apprehend that it will take another convulsion, and that probably not an extensive one—perhaps a foreign war—to permanently settle the supremacy of the nation in every uncivilized mind.

The weakness of the federal government now is due to the states who contribute to their representative catfishes as senators, justices and even presidents.

The last message of the governor of South Carolina, the most wayward of all our early provinces, shows the failure of an ostentatious state sovereignty in the refusal of the people, though they disobey the federal laws of suffrage, to pay their taxes, maintain their public schools, uphold their one university—the first one where free trade, rebellion and secession were taught—nor submit their land and social amenities.

Good citizens of such a state must inevitably turn toward the cordial and helpful federalism at Washington, and so, I think, when we have a less mercenary newspaper press and can for less income tell more truth, the poorer and raggeder states will be like the prodigal son and say, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight; make me one of thy hired servants."

The necessities of dull states, the good sense of great states, all bear toward raising and respecting the one federal fatherhood which takes while we sleep, so that we do not feel the rib taken from our body, and applies that subtraction to delightful taste and intercourse.

Out of the one public estate have come all these railways, school sections, new and great cities, irrigating works, mines, etc. Where the federal works are expensive the state politicians make them so. Who would not rather trust the United States engineers than a state legislature, either for wisdom or virtue?

The faithless refusal of lacking in the supreme legislature through local and personal demagogues will, when restored, make honor at Washington the public standard.

Liberty has descended to us through timorous and excitable men like Jefferson, since a stockade surrounded by Indians. Liberty ought to be not the suspicion of mutual egotisms, but the beautiful respect and harmony between men and his family.

The unequal civilization of the parts of our country, the assembling as tribes instead of fellow countrymen, the law of life and property in one part, the law of spasm and force in another part, the long results of slavery and nonpayment of taxes, must end.

Excessive wealth ought to be taxed in its full proportion, not more, for remove the stimulus of wealth and at present America is nothing.

The church has become nonentity, except as a dead pull back on bold and noble thinking. Literature, until the other day, had no care from the lawmaking power. Science is doing well, but is taking fat tolls from its benefactor. Would not a better interpretation of government than we have bought the telephone at the outset for a million dollars instead of taxing every customer in two generations fifty dollars a year?

Europe is influencing us greatly, and that will last long and wisely. What have we to learn from North Carolina or Indiana that would be better than European intercourse?

We must nourish our peasantry, including the $800,000 of our blacks, for an empire without servants might almost be without homes or needs. What have these wretched states done to discipline the poor in the mechanic and household arts?

The farmers are without public spirit or they would have better roads and conveniences. From the cities and the villa seats are to come the immediate helps to progress.

Individual life needs more liberty than dogma and fashion will accord. He who confiscates my Sunday to serve his superstition tyrannizes over one-seventh of my life.

When we become free indeed it will cost us so much to live, for fashion and church thrive upon our acquiescent slavery. The home, too, should be free, the civil and not the clerical power should do all the marrying; these broken homes are often the result of the monetary and secret priest making the divorce, the half grown and the runaway to each other.

Temperance and legislation have little to do with each other. Liquors ought to be inspected and adulterating brewers to wear stripes.

Woman's great triumph, and man's, too, will be not to need the ballot often, but ballots alone and uninfluenced for a man. Perhaps the old mads might be given the Australian ballot to widen the understanding of it.

"Go in" for sound bodies such as nature intended the mothers of the human race to possess; if they teach their children self respect and respect for authority, Americans of 1993 will regard their ancestors of 1893 as little less than vulgar, ignorant heathens.

What is the future of the servant problem? Again, it depends on women. When they know their own business and learn the meaning of Christianity there will be no servant problem.

In dress? Once more the question must be settled by women. Should American women do their own thinking in the next hundred years they will not import their fashions, and they will wear nothing that interferes with a magnificent physical development. Trains will be reserved for the house, corsets and high heels will be sent to Coventry; the waist line will be just below the bosom, and Atlanta will live again.

Is the condition of the laboring class likely to become more or less dependent? There has been a steady improvement in the condition of what is falsely called the "laboring class," as though no one worked except the manual laborer. I only hope that the brain worker will be as well paid in 1993 as will be the manual laborer, who is fast forgetting the fates of this republic and reducing human capacity to a dead level of mediocrity. All men should be born free, but all men are not born equal, trades unions to the contrary. There always have been, as there always will be, leaders in temperance legislation.

So called temperance legislation is a temporary aberration of well meaning but narrow minded men and women with whom sentimentality supplants reason, and who actually think morals are an affair of legislation. One hundred years hence personal liberty will be more than a phrase. When it is a fact summary laws will be as impossible as witch burning is now.

KATE FIELD.

Nym Crinkle on Literature and the Drama. What will be the condition of literature and drama in 100 years hence?

To keep the answer to this question out of the category of mere guesses on the one hand and save it from the imputation of rash prediction on the other, it must be deduced from the indications of the present.

There is a feverish energy in every department of intellectual life just now that is symptomatic. Every person of fairly good education and of restless mind writes a book. As a rule, it is a superficial book, but it swells the bulk and it indicates the cerebral unrest that is trying to express itself.

We have arrived at a condition in which there are books printed in such quantities that the world can read. This is true not only of books that are not worth reading, but it is true of the books that are.

All this I take to be the result of an intellectual affluence that is new, and the lesson of trusting his brother, and the nation which has drawn all peoples to it with a cosmic gravitation and lifted them with freedom and confidence will also have destroyed the prejudices of race and the animosities of sect.

Such a view presents the low solidarity of fraternity that the old lesson which that first democrat dauntlessly proclaimed on Mars' hill.

A. C. WHEELER (Nym Crinkle).

John Swinton's Views. When the old sage grunder said that "We can judge of the future by the past," he predicted that "The things which will be are the things which have been." I replied to him in the Hebrew language with the word "Amen!"

Well, then, suppose that the wisecracks of the Fifth century while hanging up their maxims have judged of the future. Sixteenth century by the past. Fourteenth century, and concluded that the one must be even as the other had been, it would not be evident to us of this time that they did not foresee the consequences of the discovery of America, or of Gutenberg's printing, or of Luther's antipapal mutiny, or of the doom of Islam, or of the Renaissance.

So, again, if the wisecracks who lived at the opening of last century, when Louis XIV was king of France and William III was the sovereign of British America, believed that their posterity would leave things as they found them, it would not be evident to us who live at this time that they had not forecast the events of 1776 in this country, or those of 1789 in France, or many others that were on record before the year in question.

And so yet again it may be taken for granted that the wisecracks who worked the old saw at the opening of our own Nineteenth century, while judging the future by the past, did not have any prevision of the transformations to be brought about during the century in South America, Asia, Africa, or even in such European countries as Germany and Italy.

I cannot foretell the course or the operations of the whirligig of time during the next hundred years. I am disposed to surmise that the history of the world in the record thereof will have to get up a big book.

I guess that there will be great political and social changes in our country before the year 1993, and that these changes will be advantageous to the community at large. I guess that before the next century shall and the functions and powers of our government will be greatly enlarged; that railroads, telegraphs and many other things now held as private spoil will be public property; that law, medicine and theology will be more reasonable than they now are; that the inventions of the future will be greater than we have ever yet had, and that the welfare of mankind will be higher than it is in this age of confusion.

JOHN SWINTON.

It Was Not So. She walked timidly into the coroner's office, leading by the hand a little boy.

"Where do you keep the pictures of the dead men?" she inquired of the broken English of the man behind the wicket. "I want to look for my husband."

A bulky package of photographs of the "unknown" was handed to her. She sat down on a chair and commenced her sad task. She scanned each gruesome picture carefully, endeavoring to find the well known face. The last picture she picked up each portrait with a cry of "That's him!" and succeeded in discovering at least twenty "hims" before his mother had finished the package.

One of those sympathetic souls entered and sympathized with the widow. After a few questions he assisted her in her search, saying, "You must feel very deeply the loss of your husband."

They will have more leisure to think. The present rate of headlong material activity cannot be kept up for another hundred years. Already a new class is multiplying, which is reaping the leisure that its fathers made possible by industry and hard work. The continent is all explored and nearly all surveyed. There will scarcely be another Pike's peak fever. While I am writing this the statesmen of the country are asking themselves if it is not time to make laws which shall restrict if they do not put a stop to immigration.

In 100 years Denver will be as big as New York and in the center of a vast population. If the republic remains politically compact and doesn't fall apart at the Mississippi river, Canada will be either part of it or an independent sovereignty, and the northern shore of the Gulf of Mexico will be the Riviera of the western continent.

It is not possible to estimate the perpetuity and progress of the United States without feeling that its political majesty and its beneficent freedom will react upon the intellectual development of the people. The solidarity, the general happiness of the nation, will find an outcome in nobler works of art and science.

In that hundred years we will have matured our poet and found our Moliere or our Shakespeare.

The gestation of genius is by centuries. Of course I do not suppose that the incoming century will bring the millennium. We all know that progress often depends on disaster as character depends on suffering and no one can tell what upheavals are in store. History, on the whole, is very sad reading, and if the lesson not of unimpaired material prosperity, but of rise, decline and fall.

But in our present rate of progress is much hope and some calculable signs. In 100 years the public will desire better reading, because it must reach a better plane of thinking. The genius of great universities will have matured their fruit by that time. The world will be in closer touch. Mercy will march with war and arbitration precede it. Somewhere the nation will have an intellectual capital with a national library and a national theater. It will have developed an art school of its own.

The ideal man and woman will have an opportunity to use all plastic arts, and will speak to us in literature and drama. The homes of the country will have been quadrupled, and it is the men and the women of the theater. As we increase the enjoyments of the family circle we lessen the attraction of the cheap public entertainments, which depend upon the hotels and the floating population.

We can see even now that sectarian barriers are crumbling. Men are climbing over the ecclesiastical fences to get nearer to each other, and they have found that as they come together they approach the eternal reason.

In a hundred years man will have learned the lesson of trusting his brother, and the nation which has drawn all peoples to it with a cosmic gravitation and lifted them with freedom and confidence will also have destroyed the prejudices of race and the animosities of sect.

Such a view presents the low solidarity of fraternity that the old lesson which that first democrat dauntlessly proclaimed on Mars' hill.

Percy Terrell began to realize the foolishness of his act in salting forth all by himself.

The mirage expanse of the sandy desert stretched away from him on every hand until it was lost in the vast distance. Far out waned mountains, ghostly and uncertain in outline, appeared to him to dip and swim, their bases hidden in a sea of blue haze. The grassless, treeless hills seemed to heave to and fro under the hot sun like billows—a strange, spectral landscape.

The previous morning Percy had started out on his wheel from the Needles, a town near the California and Arizona line, intending to make the run to Barabzon, in the desert, instead of waiting to take passage on the weekly stage. The distance was considerable, but he had felt that he ought to have no trouble in making it on his trusty steed.

He had first fancied crossing the desert on a bicycle, and not all the dissuasions of his friends at the Needles had been sufficient to induce him to abandon the idea. He wished now he had paid some heed to what had been told him.

He had dismounted for a rest, and was sitting on a gravelly hillside. He unscrewed his water bottle, and took a short pull at it. The water was warm and disagreeable; and, worst of all, it was alarmingly low, and he had no knowledge of how soon he might get more. He had missed the only spring in that section, and, for all he knew, there might not be another on the entire Barabzon route. His progress had been slower than he had anticipated. The sand was so deep in places that wheeling was over the sand, and he would have felt better if there had been any way to determine the distance yet to be traversed. He hoped he would not be forced to make another night camp in the desert.

As he set the wheels in motion he heard a singular clucking sound, turning his head around in the saddle he saw three Indians rise from behind a low mound, and come running toward him.

The sight almost took away Percy's breath. Although he knew at a glance they were Yumas, and had been told by the stage driver that the Yumas were something in their bearing that filled him with fear. He felt even more nervous when he saw two others rise from another mound a short distance ahead and place themselves in a position to intercept him.

He could not doubt they had stolen on him while he rested and were now trying to hem him in and capture him. Why they should desire to do this he could not guess, but their actions did not look friendly.

The wheeling was fairly good at that point, and Percy sent the bicycle forward at a round gate, and hoped he could elude or dash by the two Indians in front. As the bicycle obediently leaped ahead under the strong propulsion, he began to feel sure he could do it.

He swerved to the right as he neared the two Indians, and when they rushed in that direction, too, he gave a quick turn and sent the wheel spinning away on a new tack. Meanwhile, the three in the rear were hurrying up with all their might and yelling in a manner to disconcert the bravest, and the two in front now added their wild cries to the hideous chorus.

"Yell away, there, you red scoundrels," Percy shouted, as with a spurt he sped by, beginning to feel he would make an attempt to escape. "Yell away, hand and catch me if you can!"

He had seen that none of them had firearms, carrying only long lances of hard wood, tipped with iron.

But he had boasted too soon. The Yuma nearest lifted his lance and hurled it through the air with marvelous force and skill. Percy glimpsed it shooting toward him, and with a cry of fear, bent down to escape it.

The weapon had not been hurled at him, however. The wily Yuma had aimed at the forward spinning wheel of the bicycle. The blade of the lance passed between the spokes, and with the advantage of this better roadway Percy rapidly increased the distance between himself and these very unpleasant acquaintances.

They hung persistently on his track, however, though at the end of half an hour they had dwindled to mere specks. At the expiration of an hour they were no longer visible; and then Percy threw himself on the sand, feeling that he could not propel the safety another yard if his life depended on it.

The Yumas did not come into view again, probably having abandoned the chase, and Percy, after a brief rest, started on his way again. He reached Barabzon safe and sound.

"Injun ride 'um pony now! Mebbe little white boy git hurt! Sabe?" Percy smiled against his will. Compared with these Yumas, he had to confess he was a very "little white boy." All five were broad-shouldered, giants of fellows, with arms and legs like bronze beams and muscles that stood out in knotted rolls of strength.

The Indian who had grasped Percy's shoulder stepped up to the overturned bicycle, drew out the shaft of the lance and swung himself awkwardly into the seat. The safety toppled over with him as soon as he tried to set his moccasined feet on the pedals. A laugh greeted his failure; but a comrade came to his assistance and the discomfited Yuma tried again.

He seemed to find great fun to sit in the saddle and be wheeled about on the sand, but it was impossible to keep his seat and work the wheel without aid.

Another and another tried it with no better success.

If the entire performance had not been so humiliating Percy might have seen in it much to amuse him. It was really a most laughable exhibition of awkwardness. These Yumas would have had no trouble in mounting and riding the wildest pony that ever bounded across that desert, but here they found their skill at fault. What looked so easy proved to be entirely beyond them all.

Grunts of delight or derision arose at each failure; and when one of the fellows was shot head first into the sand and got up digging it out of his mouth and eyes and making a wry face the yell of his comrades rose in an ecstatic chorus.

They spent more than an hour in an endeavor to conquer the "little white boy's" steed, but at the end of that time were forced to give it up as hopeless.

The Indians try the "iron pony."

"Little iron pony heap back!" one of them explained, crossing over to where Percy reclined on the sand and pointing to the unmanageable safety. "White boy show Injun how to ride 'um!"

This was an opportunity Percy had begun to fear would never come. "O, ride it yourself," he said with a show of scorn and indifference. "You'll learn soon."

But when the Yuma gravely shook his head and pointed once more to the bicycle, Percy arose and walked toward it with assumed indifference, though he felt his limbs trembling under him.

He examined the injured wheel leisurely, and saw that practically it was as good as if sound. Nevertheless he pointed the twisted spokes as though the trouble the Yumas had experienced lay in them.

The Yumas were watching him, and with evident suspicion. Some of them took up their lances and stationed themselves near, plainly to prevent any effort to escape.

Percy mounted. At first he rode the bicycle round and round in a little circle, all the while causing it to wobble as if it were out of order. Under his indifference he was closely watching, with a wildly beating heart, for a chance to break past the line of lances and send his wheel spinning across the sand.

Slowly he increased the circle, adding a yard or two to its diameter at every sweep. Suddenly, seeing an opening, he made a sharp quick turn, and throwing all his strength into the rush, made a dash for liberty.

A threatening yell arose behind, and several lance points whizzed past him. But the haste with which they were thrown caused them to fly wildly. None touched him; and in another moment he was alone, bicycling as fast as he could beyond the yelling circle, and was dilying with all speed across the gravelly waste—the Yumas in pursuit.

Being splendid runners the Indians crowded him uncomfortably close for the first hundred yards. At that point the earth became firmer, and with the advantage of this better roadway Percy rapidly increased the distance between himself and these very unpleasant acquaintances.

They hung persistently on his track, however, though at the end of half an hour they had dwindled to mere specks. At the expiration of an hour they were no longer visible; and then Percy threw himself on the sand, feeling that he could not propel the safety another yard if his life depended on it.

The Yumas did not come into view again, probably having abandoned the chase, and Percy, after a brief rest, started on his way again. He reached Barabzon safe and sound.

VENTILATING THE EARTH.

WHY DO THE WINDS BLOW?—A SYSTEM OF VENTILATION.

By Prof. William Morris Davis of Harvard University.

Specialty Contributed to The Times.

The wind blows because the air is colder and therefore heavier in one region than in another: the cold heavy air flows along the surface of the earth, creeping under the warmer, lighter air; the flowing air is wind.

When I was in Washington in February with a young fellow who is now growing old enough to go with me on short journeys, we went to the great monument. The few days before had been cold, but the morning of our visit was mild under a warm sunshine, such as Northern visitors to the capital find very enjoyable in the winter season. As we entered the door at the base of the monument, a strong blast of cold air was blowing out, and on inquiring of the attendant I learned that this was a common occurrence. It was a good illustration of the cause of the winds. The stones of the monument had become chilled in the colder weather of the days before, and all the air within the shaft was cooled, thus becoming so heavy that whenever the door was opened the bottom it descended actively and blew out with some violence. When we reached the top after the long ascent in the elevator, the air was blowing in at the windows, to supply that which descended through the shaft.

All this is, in a way, like the north-west winds of blustery March. For two days we have now had here in Cambridge a rushing northwest wind. The weather maps, issued daily by the Weather Bureau, show that this wind is part of a great air current that is sweeping far and wide across the country. It comes from the north-west, the territories of Canada and flows rapidly all over our Central and Eastern States, flooding them with cold, dry air. Any reader who is old enough to remember other Marches must recall similar spells of cold, violent north-west winds. They may be as warm as the ground, with the cold blast that blows out of the Washington Monument on warm days of winter.

NORTHWEST MARCH WINDS. Far on the plains of Northwest Canada, beyond Winnipeg, the winters are very cold. The days are short and during daytime the sun rises little above the southern horizon, shining but faintly on the snow-covered country. The snow reflects away much of the sunshine that falls on it, and the reflected rays give no warmth to the ground. The nights are long and quiet, allowing the snow to become excessively cold, and thus cooling the air that lies on it. The whole district becomes surcharged with cold, heavy air.

If it were surrounded by mountains the cold, heavy air might there all winter, until warmed again by the lengthening sunshine of spring; there are mountains on the west, but there is no such enclosure on the east. The plains continue without interruption across the international boundary, so the heavy air sweeps out from the region of greatest cold and deluges us with its icy blast.

These blustering northwest winds characterize March for two reasons. First, because by the end of winter the atmosphere over far Northwestern Canada has fallen to its lowest temperature and with the coming of March it is a little warmed.

Second, because in March our Southern States have already entered the middle half of the year. Thus there is a strong difference of temperature established between the two regions, and hence a strong wind blows from one to the other.

If all the air North and South were equally cold and heavy, it would everywhere lie calm; if it were all warm and light it would be still and motionless. But as there are always differences of temperature between different regions, so there are always winds blowing from one place to another. The example of the March blasts illustrates the effect of pronounced contrast of temperature.

THE SEA BREEZE. In summer time the strong sunshine warms the land more than the water, and the air over the land thus gains a higher temperature than that over the oceans. The many reasons for this will be understood by any reader who has gone through a course of physics at school.

Water evaporates and much of the sunshine that falls on the sea is given over to supplying the energy needed for evaporation, causing latent heat, about which you may ask your school teacher; hence less sunshine can be devoted to causing a rise of temperature. The land is non-volatile, and all the sunshine that falls on it is devoted to warming it, except the little that is needed to dissipate the morning dew or the rain of the day before.

Water is transparent, and hence the sunshine enters to a considerable depth in the ocean and distributes its warming action through a large volume of water; the land is opaque and takes all the sunshine that falls upon it directly at the surface, thus warming only a
